ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — State of as many temporary employees by Dec. 21 on their economy departments and agencies were as possible, a freeze on hiring moves. "If these reports do not under orders today to reduce and nonessential promotions, a show satisfactory progress to ward our goal," Hurd said, "more drastic measures will then have to be considered."

Budget Director T. Norman Hurd, in issuing the order, suggested such steps as the firing of employees who are not needed to submit written reports from payrolls by the order.

"Those figures are way out of line," Hurd told newsmen. "All we're asking is that agencies see if they can get along without some of the provisional employees they now have."

He said he could not estimate the number of employees who might be dropped until agencies reported back to him. His memorandum did not estimate how many employees ought to be fired or how many jobs should remain vacant. The state now employs about 140,000.

The state started the current fiscal year last April 1 with a $7.25-billion budget. Hurd trimmed the spending ceilings last summer because of lagging tax collections and produced a budget of $7.12 billion in spending. In the memorandum sent last Friday to agency heads, Hurd wrote: "Even though you have attempted to keep your expenditures within the ceilings previously announced, it is apparent that we shall have to do something further belt-tightening to help close a gap that may exceed $100 million."

The Civil Service Employees Association, which represents the bulk of the state workers, protested the order, saying that the state administration was "sacrificing state employees in an attempt to dig itself out of financial difficulty."

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt reported last week that state revenues for the first eight months of the fiscal year were only $40 million more than during the same period last year. Gov. Rockefeller had estimated a revenue increase of $550 million over the previous year in balancing his budget.

The governor and his budget director have attributed the lagging tax receipts to the national economic slump, but they held out hope for an upturn in the economy toward the end of the year.

Rockefeller, however, has expressed concern about a possible financial crisis in the next state fiscal year and has estimated a revenue gap of at least $400 million in the next budget. He has pleaded with the federal government for $1 billion in additional federal aid for the state through a revenue sharing program. The alternative is implied that state tax increases may be necessary.

Hurd cautioned the agency heads about budget problems during the same period last year. Gov. Rockefeller had estimated a revenue increase of $550 million over the previous year in balancing his budget.

The governor and his budget director have attributed the lagging tax receipts to the national economic slump, but they held out hope for an upturn in the economy toward the end of the year.

The Railroad Threat—Earlier Stand Modified

WASHINGTON (AP) — Railroad unions left to Congress today a thin opportunity to avert a nationwide train strike that would strand Christmas mail and travelers and severely crimp the nation's already troubled economy.

C.L. Dennis, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, hinted a walkout scheduled for one minute after midnight Thursday could be postponed if Congress included an immediate 13.5 per cent wage hike for 500,000 rail workers as part of legislation forcing a strike delay.

There was no immediate indication that Congress would pick up Dennis' hint as hearings continued today into the situation.

The rail leader made his statement to the House Commerce Committee Tuesday in an apparent modification of his stand earlier in the day when he said a strike was promised, not threatened.

"I haven't said we would strike no matter what you do," Dennis told the House committee. That was after he threatened to defy Congress, the White House and the federal courts by ordering the pre-dawn walkout.

In talking with reporters after his committee appearance, the union leader said he would go along with a strike delay ordered by Congress if the legislation also included the 13.5 per cent immediate pay boost and another 5 per cent in April.

"This would be okay," he said. Dennis, whose union is the largest of the four involved in the dispute, has rejected a three-year, 37 per cent package of wage hikes offered by the industry.

The 13.5 per cent raise he demanded for right now would be included in any settlement reached during the congressional mandated strike delay.

President Nixon had asked only for a simple strike-delaying special law to put the crisis over for 45 days until after the new Congress meets Jan. 20. Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., chairman of the House Commerce Committee, amended the proposal to a 70-day delay.

Dennis said the nearly 500,000 rail workers involved, who now average from $3.45 to $3.60 per hour, hadn't had a wage hike in more than a year and couldn't be expected to wait any longer after exhausting delaying procedures in current labor law over that period.

Secretary of Transportation John Volpe told newsmen, in answer to a question, that the government would consider using Army troops to run the trains if there was a strike.

This would be the first time troops operated the railroads since the post-World War II era more than 20 years ago. But the White House and Defense Department said no such preparations were under way.

The crisis appeared the gravest of any other nationwide rail strike threats in recent years. There have been only two brief coast-to-coast rail walkouts in the past half century. Congress has barred several others with special laws.

Volpe said the nation's unemployment rate, already at 5.8 per cent for the highest level in 7½ years, would soar to 8.4 per cent by the second week of a nationwide rail walkout.

AFL-CIO President George Meany, speaking in behalf of some 13.6 million union members, urged Congress to reject Nixon's request to order a strike delay.

Son Tay—A Denial

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has denied an allegation by Sen. J.W. Fulbright that the United States knew there were no American prisoners at the Son Tay prisoner of war camp in North Vietnam.

Spokesman Jerry W. Freidheim says the goal of the raid was to get American prisoners out of North Vietnam, there were no "other purposes," as Sen. Fulbright earlier Tuesday stated there were.

Fulbright did not expand on his contention, but said comments by administration officials and members of the Army and Air Force raiding party "indicated officials knew there were no prisoners there, and that the mission had other purposes."

Fulbright, chairman of the Committee, made his remarks in asking for blockage of a resolution praising members of the raiding party. The Senate gave him unanimous approval for the rerouting of the resolution back to his committee for 10 days.

It was the second time he halted progress of such a measure.

KINGSTON Fulfillment of an energetic plan to construct a 12-unit central Broadway shopping plaza now apparently hinges on favorable reaction from City Hall.

The plan, announced less than a month ago by the Central Broadway Businessmen's Association, and discussed in detail at its monthly meeting Tuesday night, needs the economic support of the city in order to reach fruition, according to association president Edward Arace.

Plans call for the location of the proposed plaza between Van Deusen and Van Buren Streets. A tentative sketch, and one that central Broadway businessmen have already forwarded to City Hall, shows a connected 12-unit plaza with approximately 110,000 square feet devoted to building space. A 20,000 square foot supermarket, a 12,000 square foot department store and a 10,000 square foot drug store are mapped out along with nine other smaller facilities. A total of 140,000 square feet would be used for parking.

According to Arace, the plaza would have two entrances to Prospect Street, as well as access lanes to Broadway, Van Deusen and Van Buren Streets. "We don't foresee any traffic problems," he noted.

The sketch of the proposed plaza was drawn up by Saugerties developer Austin Simmons. When word that a plaza was being planned was first revealed in a Nov. 13 Freeman article, central Broadway businessmen were approached by Arthur Simmons, a Saugerties real estate broker, who indicated that he knew several developers who might be interested, including his brother, Austin. Central Broadway businessmen then contacted Austin Simmons, showed him their plans, and he then drew up the preliminary sketch.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig has been aware of these latest developments for the past week and in fact forwarded copies, on Dec. 2, of the proposal and sketches to the Common Council's Laws and Rules Committee, Finance, Ways and Means Committee and Traffic Committee in addition to Alderman-Large T. Robert Gallo.

The mayor, interrupted during a negotiating session with city policemen and firemen yesterday said, "Naturally I'm interested in this proposal, however, it is difficult for me to get to it this month because of negotiations with city employees for next year's budget. I'd like the Council to get a clear picture of what's being proposed before we all get together and discuss it."

Koenig, however, has not expressed an opinion on providing parking for the proposed midtown shopping plaza, preferring to wait until the Council has finished its study. The midtown businessmen have taken the position that city-financed parking is essential to the success of their proposal.

Arace, however, said today that "Mayor Koenig has been very helpful," and he added that he was optimistic that the city would help the midtown businessmen develop and finalize their plan.

Two aldermen, according to Arace, attended last night's meeting and they, too, expressed "enthusiasm" over the plan. The two attending the meeting were Florence S. Ludlow (D-4th Ward) and Brian Smith (R-3rd Ward).

In addition, the city has committed almost $700,000 to a concentrated code enforcement area, also within walking distance of the proposed plaza, in encompassing an area bounded by Greenkill Avenue, Clinton Avenue and the back lots of properties on Maiden Lane, St. James Street and Broadway.

The plans, of course, are completely tentative. Simmons told The Freeman that he has not committed himself to building anything, and has not been asked for a commitment by the central Broadway businessmen. "I just offered them my professional opinion," he said.

The proposed project now rests in the hands of the mayor and the aldermen, which means specific action probably won't be taken until the January meeting. If the Council expresses favorable reaction, plans may then be made to purchase the 48 parcels of land that the plaza would reportedly encompass.

In the meantime, central Broadway businessmen will concentrate on gathering their forces together to work for passage of their proposal. If the plaza becomes a reality, said Arace, everyone will prosper, including senior citizens, the city itself and, especially, the central Broadway business district. "We're dying now," said Arace, but construction of the new plaza, he indicated, would revitalize the area and would act as an incentive to construct "four or five more plazas in the area in coming years."

Paltz Addition—A Spring Start

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

NEW PALTZ Voter approval Tuesday of the proposed 10-room addition to the Duzine Elementary School here paves the way for advertising for bids in about three months and the start of construction in the spring.

New Paltz Board of Education has set a target date of 1972 for completion and occupancy of the new facilities.

A spokesman for the board said today that the 10-room addition should solve the problems of overcrowding in the middle school for at least the next five years.

The $800,000 expansion project was approved by the district voters 790 to 416. It was reported that two-thirds of the school districts registered voters cast ballots.

The School Board in its study of the feasibility of expansion found that the utilities, electricity, heating and sewage treatment facilities would be adequate to handle the expanded facility.

The expansion should provide the needed additional space for pupils in kindergarten through eighth grade. Transfer of fourth grade classes from the Middle School to the Duzine School will provide more room and avoid overcrowding at the Middle School, it was reported.

The School Board had under consideration construction at a new site, but two site defeats by district voters indicated to the board that a favorable vote would not result and the decision was made to expand the existing facility. The board is currently studying the space situation in the high school and further recommendations in the near future are possible.

There was some opposition to the 10-room addition plans from those who wanted a new school constructed at another site in one of the more populated areas of the district, possibly Gardiner.

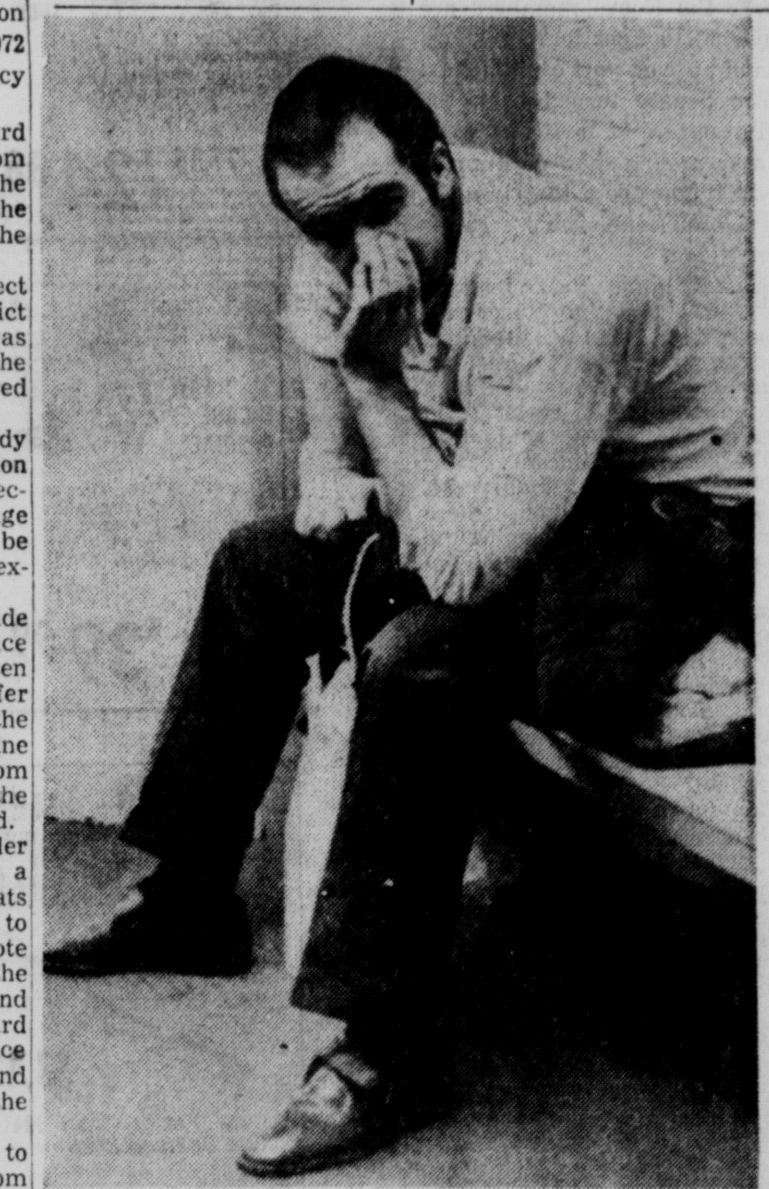

The school board sold the idea on the economy factor and pointed out that the expansion plan was a "very economical way to relieve the critical classroom shortage.

They stressed that the square foot cost of the project was estimated at $21.50, almost $5 less than the average cost of new school construction in the state. They further stressed that since the annual debt is not expected to exceed $30,000, the district's budget under the plan would be increased by no more than one per cent. They also noted that personnel costs of about $80,000 would be saved on the non-teaching staff.

The name Duzine was the result of a name contest held in the school in 1963. Jeanne Luczal was the winner with her suggestion that the school be named Duzine.

County Death Rate About on Level of Rest of U.S.

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON Clear Catskill Mountain air or pockets of cement and sulphur pollution, Ulster County's environment doesn't seem to effect its citizen death rate, according to Ulster County Health Department statistics, for county residents die at almost exactly the same rate as everyone else in the United States.

During July, August and September of this year, 124 heart attacks and 50 strokes claimed the most lives locally but they were mainly in the 70 to 80 plus age group.

Cancer was next taking 62 lives and pneumonia and diseases of the circulatory system followed claiming 19 lives each. Accidents were responsible for 13 deaths and the balance were due to such things as diabetes, nephritis and cirrhosis of the liver.

There were 41 fetal deaths, and nine among children between birth and a year of age, three due to prematurity, two to accidents, two to pneumonia and two from other causes.

The 564 resident live births recorded offset the more than 300 deaths recorded.

Ulster County's death rate hasn't changed appreciably in recent years, according to Harry Edinger, Ulster County environmental sanitary engineer who explained that the death rate here and elsewhere leveled off in about 1954 and has remained much the same since.

In the 50-year period between 1900 and 1949, the death rate decreased by more than 40 per cent.

The rate of decline has not been uniform, however. Between 1900 and 1917 the rate of change was almost three times greater than in the period between 1921 and 1937. Between 1930 and 1950 the death rate dropped almost twice as fast as during the preceding period.

Recalling former years when Ulster County had its share of epidemics, Edinger told of a milk-borne infection that attacked about 600 persons in Saugerties, with a number of them dying. Also in the era of the 30's, a food-borne staph infection at a camp caused many persons to become ill and it was then that penicillin was first introduced locally. Proven, water borne hepatitis also reared its ugly head years back when it attacked about 80 or 90 persons at a hotel in southern Ulster.

Special

With such tragedies relegated to the past as well as the 47.3 year life expectancy prevalent in the early 1900's, Ulster County now has also seen the last of many serious cases of influenza and TB that plagued the countryside until anti-biotics were introduced in 1938.

Today, a typical three-month report of local recorded diseases shows that the list has been narrowed to about six with cancer at the top. In 1938 cancer was near the bottom of the list.

During June, July and August of this year, there were 19 cases of cancer reported in the City of Kingston and 62 in the county for a total of 81.

Surprisingly, only one case of German measles was recorded in the county during the three-months, also eight cases of hepatitis in the city and 11 in the county. There was one case of pertussis (whooping cough) in the county, five cases of salmonella in the county and one reported case of a strep sore throat including scarlet fever in the county.

In the area of venereal disease, 14 cases of gonorrhea were reported in the city and 23 in the county as well as five cases of syphilis in the county.

Regarding tuberculosis, which although minimal compared to past years, is still with us in Ulster County, there were 68 active cases reported in August with two cases far advanced in the city, and one minimal and peritoneal each in the county.

The attendance at Ulster County chest clinics reached an impressive 2,356 with 54 chest clinics held and 108 public health nurses assisting at the clinics.

In the area of immunizations, 17 clinics were held during the three-month period and 16 child health conferences were held. One immunization clinic was held for the New Paltz immunization clinic, mainly for measles and German measles.

The Department of Environmental Sanitation made 4,759 visits and inspections during the same period including the following: restaurants, 389; herd examinations, 6; milk and milk products, 61; food processing establishments, 2; water supplies, public, 146 and private, 410; sewage, 397; nuisances, 300; pools and beaches, 134; resorts, state parks and camps, 1,159; state institutions, 3 and realty subdivisions, 3.

Also, stream pollution, 78; outbreaks, 2; schools, 18; refuse disposal; institutions and places of public assembly, 9; housing and/or rent control; rabies control, 512; farm labor camps, 461; air pollution, 168, and insect control, 161.

A New Life For SST

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has given new life to the American supersonic transport program and in the process presented the Senate with a strong test of its opposition to the SST.

The House voted 213 to 174 Tuesday against accepting the Senate defeat of $290 million to continue development of the 1,800-mile-an-hour aircraft.

The differing versions now go to a conference committee where the House members are expected to fight for a restoration of at least part of the funds.

The Senate turned back the SST program 52 to 41 last week in a surprising show of strength by SST opponents that brought on vigorous criticism by President Nixon.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who led the successful Senate fight against the SST, said he would use "all the resources at my disposal" if any of the money is restored in conference. Aides, said that could include a filibuster.

Democratic Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, where the Boeing Co. is developing the 298-passenger delta-wing jetliner, said he is "cautiously optimistic" the House vote means the plane will be kept alive.

Rep. Edward P. Boland, D-Mass., leader of the House conferees, said they will press for something less than the original $290 million, but named no lower figure.

The seven Senate conferees, though morally bound to press the Senate's anti-SST position, line up 4 to 3 in favor of the SST.

Boland told the House more than $100 million of the $290 million already has been committed through January under interim authority. That is one compromise figure being mentioned. Another is $145 million, half the administration's request.

Either would keep the program alive, but both likely would delay development, which now calls for the first American SST test flight early in 1973 and regular passenger flights in 1980.

Opponents charged before the House vote that the plane would foul the atmosphere and ultimately could cost the taxpayers more than $5 billion, while only 2 per cent of them would fly it because of high fares.

But House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said scrapping the plane while a British-French combine readies its Concorde SST for passenger flights in 1974 would be "one of the most serious mistakes in our history."

Ford repeated Nixon's contention that killing the SST will cost 150,000 jobs nationwide. He said the government would lose $1 billion in eventual profit on its SST investment and the nation would suffer a $17 billion balance of payments loss.

But Rep. Sidney R. Yates, D-Til., leading the opposition, said the 150,000-job figure is a projection of work SST production would bring, not a reflection of jobs currently held.

Yates said taxpayers would have to pay the plane's $3-billion to $4-billion manufacturing cost, as well as the $1.3 billion in federal money planned for development.

Viet Statements First Defense for Calley

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — From sworn statements of Vietnamese people will come the first defense for Lt. William L. Calley the 5-foot-3 platoon leader who has been portrayed at a court-martial as decreeing and dealing death to masses of their countrymen at My Lai.

After its 35th witness testified Tuesday, the prosecution conditionally rested its case, reserving the right to reopen it if two missing witnesses can be found. Planning to call its first witness Thursday morning, the defense today was to present to Judge Reid W. Kennedy an undisclosed number of the statements taken by Calley and two attorneys in Vietnam just before the trial started.

No Vietnamese will come to this infantry post to testify about what happened in the village near the South China Sea on March 16, 1968.

The six-officer jury, trying Calley on charges of murdering 102 Vietnamese, was given today off. Administrative business and routine motions were to be taken care of at an afternoon session.

George Latimer, Calley's chief civilian lawyer, said the free day was needed to check the status of witnesses being summoned at a peak travel time.

The prosecution—responsible for arranging for all witnesses—has said the defense has requested the appearance of 57.

Judge Kennedy, a colonel, indicated that unless the trial appears near completion, he will recess for Christmas and New Years holidays after Dec. 18. The jurors return to their homes each night.

In testimony spanning more than three weeks, the jurors—two captains, three majors and a colonel—heard witnesses relate that Calley ordered and participated in the execution of My Lai villagers at two main sites, one a trail intersection in the village, and the other a ditch just outside.

Four GI's testified they saw

Calley shooting people at the ditch and one said he saw killing by the lieutenant at the trail intersection.

James Joseph Dursi, a Western Electric employee from Brooklyn, N.Y., said Tuesday he and Pfc. Paul Meadlo were told by Calley to start moving them into the ditch.

"Some of them started crying or yelling," said Dursi, the last prosecution witness. "I was ordered to shoot."

"By whom?"

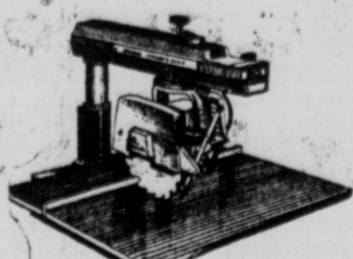

"By Lt. Calley."

Dursi continued, "Then Lt. Calley and Meadlo started firing. Meadlo turned to me shortly after the shooting began and said 'Shoot, who don't you fire? I just said, 'I can't, I won't' and looked down at the ground."

Dursi said he had helped Calley and Meadlo shove people into the ditch.

When he didn't join in the firing, Dursi said, "Calley came to me and told me to get across the ditch before I got sick." Later, he testified that Calley's tone was sympathetic.

Clintondale Names Woman As Fire Commissioner

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

KINGSTON Several fire districts in Ulster County held elections to name fire commissioners, one district named a treasurer and in West Hurley the taxpayers approved an expenditure up to $32,000 for a new pumper truck.

Clintondale Fire District elect a woman as fire commissioner, reported to be the first woman in the county elected to serve as a district commissioner.

Mrs. Betty Walker polled 102 votes for the five-year term; John Jacobs 87 and Isiah Wager 16. For the four-year term, Roy Pauli polled 73 votes; John Eberhardt 59; Charles Wilkham 41 and William Fino 32. Mrs. William Walker is the mother of four, two boys and two girls.

In West Hurley District the referendum to authorize funds for a new pumper truck won 37 to 5. The new truck is needed to replace the pumper now in service which is a 1952 model at West Hurley Fire Station. Fred Meyers polled 42 votes for the five-year commissioner's post and Harold Elliott polled 41 for the three-year term as treasurer. They were unopposed.

The High Falls Fire District elected Robert Andersen to the five-year term as commissioner for the position held by Alfred Friedman, whose term expired. Raymond Rappolt was elected to the three-year unexpired term of Carl Speakman.

Ulster District No. 1, Spring Lake, elected Philip Kleinman to the commissioner's post succeeding Robert Kurland, whose term expired. There was no opposition.

Mt. Marion-Ruby Fire District had a contest this year with Edwin Tabler of Mt. Marion Park, who is the fire company treasurer as the winner of the five-year commissioner post. He polled 51 votes against Allen Stauble Jr., of Ruby, 35 votes. Tabler succeeds Henry Snyder of Mt. Marion, long-time commissioner and former chairman, who did not choose to run.

Man Held in Fatal Shooting Of County Youth

CRAIG, COLO.

An 18-year-old Ulster County youth was shot to death in Craig recently and a 22-year-old cafe worker in that city has been formally charged with first degree murder.

The victim of the fatal shooting, which occurred Dec. 3, was identified as Robert Kerhonsky.

Arrested Tuesday on the murder charge was Raymond W. Rust, of Craig, who was accused of shooting Flynn with a 16 gauge shotgun in Rust's residence.

A spokesman in the Moffatt County (Colo.) sheriff's office said the suspect and the victim were both workers in a Craig cafe.

League of Women Voters will serve as moderator. The Youth-In-Government program has been created by the Ulster County Legislature and got underway in October with the selection of candidates and programs. Party caucuses were held, parties selected officials names and chairman in addition to drawing platforms and naming candidates. Schools participating include Kingston, J. Watson Bailey, Ontario, Rondout, Marlboro, Highland, M.J. Michael Junior High and Saugerties High School. The Youth-In-Government program is patterned after a program used by Orange County Schools for more than 27 years. It gives students an opportunity for realistic political participation.

Vassar Stays Open, Despite Student Prank

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (AP) — Students almost forced the closing of Vassar College this week, but the incident was more in the nature of a prank than a protest.

A notice appeared on a school bulletin board recently announcing that Thursday, Dec. 10, had been declared a holiday by the Board of Trustees to celebrate the birthday of Vassar's founder, Matthew Vassar.

A student government official cleared up the situation Tuesday by posting this message:

"Grateful as we are to Matthew Vassar, Dec. 10th will not be a holiday. For the historical ly-minded, Matthew Vassar's birthday is April 29th, which will not be a holiday either."

Power Project Nearly Complete In Upstate Area

GILBOA, N.Y. (UPI) — The main sections of the $150 million Belenheim-Gilboa pumped storage power project on Schoharie Creek are 30 percent complete, the State Power Authority reported Tuesday.

Some work on the project will continue through the winter. The completion deadline is 1973. The one-million kilowatt project will use excess power in eastern New York to pump water from the creek to a reservoir atop Brown Mountain. The water will be let down the mountain through generators during periods when power is needed.

Man Arrested, Check Charges

TOWN OF KINGSTON Accused of issuing fraudulent checks, Joseph M. DiBella, 36, of Lake Katrine, was arrested Tuesday afternoon by Investigator Harold T. Bowers and Deputy Sheriff James Eckert.

DiBella was scheduled to appear in City Court, Kingston, on two counts and he also was slated to appear at 7:30 p.m. before Town Justice Robert E. Ferrigan on one count, according to the sheriff's office.

Sergeant Ray Davis said the man allegedly issued the checks at the UPA on Field Court and at the Maverick Meats establishment in Stony Hollow.

From Tyler and Culver

Answers for Veterans

KINGSTON The following are a series of questions frequently asked concerning veterans' rights.

The answers are given by Charles L. Culver, state veteran counselor of the New York State Division of Veterans Affairs, and John B. Tyler, Director of the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency. They maintain offices at the Ulster County office building on Fair Street from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., weekdays.

Q. Are all 65-year-old veterans entitled to special considerations by the VA?

A. At age 65, veterans receive special considerations: (a) Veterans with limited incomes are entitled to a VA pension if they are permanently and totally disabled, even though the disability may not be service related. For pension purposes, veterans are considered to be permanently and totally disabled when they reach age 65. (b) Whether or not they served during war or peacetime, veterans 65 or older may be admitted to VA hospitals without having to sign a statement relating to the inability to pay.

Q. I was recently honorably discharged from service. While stationed in the United States, I received a service-connected disability. Will I be paid the war-time disability rate or the peace-time rate?

A. The law grants war-time compensation rates for service-Vietnam Era veterans (those serving in the Armed Forces after August 4, 1964) no matter where they served.

Q. I have a $10,000 National Service Life Insurance policy. What are the job restrictions on this insurance?

A. There are no restrictions as to residence, travel occupation or military or naval service. You may live or travel wherever you wish, or hold any kind of job you like without altering the terms of your policy contract or the amount of your premium.

Overbaugh Reenlists

Master Sgt. Robert H. Overbaugh, son of Mrs. Ruth I. Overbaugh of Main Street, Saugerties, takes the oath of reenlistment from Lt. Col. Jack C. CHEST ART SALE — Pictured with paintings to be sold at the Ulster County Community Club art sale are let, Miss Rita Gering, administrative assistant; Mrs. Lillian Salapatis, co-chairman; Mrs. Adele Longendyke, chairman; Miss Marion Tongue, co-chairman and Mrs. Marge Turk, ticket chairman.

Art Show Being Planned, Will Benefit Chest Drive

It was announced today that final plans are now being made for a gala art show and sale entitled the "Ulster County Community Treasure Chest" which will be held on Thursday evening, Dec. 17, in the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel in Kingston. At least forty well known area artists, many of national and even international renown, will be exhibiting their works at the show, and every work of art on display will be offered for sale with all of the proceeds going for the benefit of the 1970-71 campaign of the Ulster County Community Chest.

Among the favorite artists who have donated their works to the event are such Woodstock favorites as Paul Arndt, Kay Walsh Burgevin, Doris Lee, Allan Sloan, and William Wingate, as well as a portrait entitled the "Concert Singer" which was painted by the late Norbert Heermann, and donated to the Ulster County Community Chest by the widow of the famed portrait painter.

Acting as chairman of the art exhibit and sale is Mrs. Adele Longendyke of Woodstock, and serving as co-chairmen with Mrs. Longendyke will be Mrs. Lillian Salapatis of Kingston, Miss Marion Tongue who is the manager of the Kingston office of the New York Telephone Company, and Anthony Triulzi, Miss Ulster County Community ton Hospital who is serving as Chest, Patricia Czarski of Lake Katrine who was also named last month as the first runner-up in the Miss Ulster County Pageant in Saugerties. A further attraction will be music during the show which will be provided by a well known concert pianist from Kingston, Miss Jane Tonnesen. At the conclusion of the art show there will be a drawing for several items of fine furniture which have been donated for the occasion by the Wiedy Furniture Company, as well as an additional drawing for a "mystery" door prize.

Among the artists from Kingston and Woodstock who have already contributed works of art to the Ulster County Chest are Paul Arndt, Kay Walsh Burgevin, Ann Carolyn, the Carter sisters, Tee Ellsworth, Ceil Forman, Anita Goldberg, Joe Holdridge Jr., Doris Lee, Evelyn Rifenburg, Calvin Saunders, Allan Sloan, Bee Satsunas, Grace Swank, John Van Ness Jr., Florence Weinstein, Sylvia Wiebke, Caroline and Reginald Wilson, and William Wingate, as well as the works being donated by Mrs. Norbert Heermann and Mrs. Elinor Lewenthal. It is expected that at least twenty additional artists will be participating in the show, and Mrs. Longendyke urged that anyone who is interested in purchasing a piece of fine art, either for themselves or as a holiday gift, should certainly plan to attend the show. The exhibit and sale will begin at 7:30 p. m. and refreshments will be served.

Six Teachers Appointed By Kingston School Board

Six new teachers have been appointed by the Board of Education and the resignation of eight teachers have been accepted on recommendation of Superintendent of Schools Louis A. Salzmann of the Kingston School District Consolidated.

The Board has approved salary increases for five teachers who have submitted evidence of having satisfactorily completed graduate work. One teacher has been given tenure in the school system.

The new teachers are Mrs. Elissa A. Celuch, kindergarten, George S. Hucker and James G. Hart, elementary, Nasser Habeeb, junior high school math/science teacher, James T. Gregory math, junior high school, Mrs. Carole Ann Goss Wychodzki, speech teacher. The appointments are probationary.

Resignations were accepted from Zelda F. Boyce, Michele A. Brooks, Raymond Brown, Jonathan A. Green, Harold L. Katcher, Isabel R. Moeslein, Carole A. Morris and Patricia Sleighter.

Teachers receiving salary increases include Grace E. Fraiser, G. Thomas Keehn, Helen M. Lowe, Marilyn McNamara and Linda Lee Via.

Carole R. Vincent, junior high math teacher, has been given tenure contingent upon the successful completion of her probationary period.

Glassman in Holiday Appeal To Motorists

Kingston Acting Police Chief Julius Glassman today appealed to area motorists to exercise extreme caution to avoid highway tragedy during the holiday season.

"Make sure your driving guests have none for the road this holiday season," he stressed.

The chief said he was making the appeal in cooperation with the Automobile Club of New York's "First A Friend... Then A Host" safety campaign to reduce after-party traffic accidents during the holidays.

As a first step, the chief asked party hosts not to push drinks on guests who will be driving. He also recommended serving rich foods that would help both to moderate the effects of drinking and to reduce the amount of alcohol guests might otherwise consume to "stay with the party."

Substituting coffee, soft drinks and dessert for cocktails—at least an hour before the end of the party—helps a great deal too," he said, "by giving drivers a longer break before getting behind the wheel."

The chief also suggested that hosts should make a special effort to arrange transportation for guests who have overindulged.

In stressing the danger of driving under the influence of alcohol, the chief said that real hospitality included fulfilling the holiday wish of "many happy returns" by helping guests get home safely.

Christmas Seals

The annual sale of Christmas Seals by the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association, sponsors of the annual financial campaign, will carry on the fight against tuberculosis, emphysema, air pollution, lung cancer, chronic bronchitis, other diseases and injuries.

Dr. John Brice Plass, M.D., clinic director of tuberculosis control office, Ulster County, in his recently published documentary, The History of Tuberculosis in Ulster County, states "the function of the TB and Health Association depends entirely on the sale of Christmas Seals, 80 per cent of the funds of which are returned for local use. As one reviews its work along this line, he cannot help but be impressed by the amount of energy and sacrifice the residents of the county expended on seal sales—it was synonymous with protection of their loved ones, and they showed it."

"This is an organization which is deserving of firm support, not only for what it has done in the past and is now doing, but for what it can do in the future. It has demonstrated its ability to fight against a disease at all odds; the basic structure remains; it can, when needed, duplicate any of its work."

This year's seals, which have been mailed to area residents, as their predecessors, are symbols of the voluntary contributions for the better life for everyone. Prompt and generous response will enable the Association to continue its vital service to the community.

More than ever before the purchase of Christmas Seals is a sound investment in health. Answer your Christmas Seals letter today.

U.S. Cities Facing Crisis

Across the country today, cities large and small face fiscal crisis. The cities are caught in the crunch of increased operating cost and decreasing tax revenues. The result is that many cities are tightening their belts to stay within their incomes, or else face bankruptcy.

The national league of cities report puts the situation succinctly. While local governments have raised their tax collections by 499 per cent since World War II, city costs have risen by about 550 per cent. Welfare has become astronomical for some. Expenditures have continued ahead of revenues throughout the quarter century. The time for an accounting has arrived.

The cities have turned to their states and to the federal government for aid. Both are themselves hard pressed also, and little relief can be expected from them.

President Nixon has set $225 billion as the limit for his 1972 "full employment" budget—that is, a budget that will assure full employment in the economy. His advisors predict a deficit even at this stratospheric figure, for one thing because Congress has habitually increased his appropriation requests, as well as offered expenditure bills of its own. So with all the goodwill in the world, there will be little room for new aid to cities and states.

Anticipating little relief from state and federal governments, many cities are planning to operate at the same or smaller budgets, no new taxes, no tax increases, and fewer jobs and less service. The exodus of higher income groups and industry, leaving the inner cities to lower income residents, has resulted in a lower tax base and the only possible answer, lower services.

The hour of truth will hurt many. Higher costs for supplies, equipment and repairs and replacements—costs that are outside the control of municipal administrators—have made mandatory the dismissing of undetermined numbers of payrollers whose jobs are considered non-essential. That is the only way cities can keep solvent.

Mortgage Interest Cut

Immediately following the prime interest rate cut by the Federal Reserve Board, the Department of Housing and Urban Development lowered the interest rate ceiling on government-backed home mortgages from 8.5 to 8 per cent.

The change applies to mortgages backed both by the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration. On a 30-year mortgage of $20,000, for example, the reduction would lower monthly payments from $153.78 to $146.77. It is aimed to dispel buyer uncertainty and help to boost housing starts as well as the general economy.

The 8 per cent rate will affect only new mortgages. It will not apply to outstanding FHA-VA loans or previously negotiated commitments. Even so, HUD Secretary George Romney asked lenders to adjust the contract rate downward wherever possible on current loan commitments.

Government-backed mortgages account for one-third of the loans on newly built homes last year. They have served traditionally to finance a broad range of middle income housing. The government rate is also expected to have a beneficial downward influence on the rate of conventional mortgages. The whole affect should cover the entire range of new house mortgages.

"O.K., Let Him Have His Fun!"

David Lawrence Says Nixon's Historic Address On His Economic Strategy

WASHINGTON — President Nixon began his Friday night address to the National Association of Manufacturers — his first major speech in several weeks — by saying: "I would like to take this occasion to report to the nation on this administration's economic strategy." But did he talk to the "nation"? None of the national networks offered to carry the speech, although they have sometimes done this. The newspapers, as is their custom, printed lengthy articles about it.

Economics is not an easy subject to explain to a wide television audience, but in all communities there are knowledgeable persons who do understand the significance of the statements a President makes on inflation and wage-and-price problems. If ever there was a time when public opinion needed to be informed about the meaning of the efforts to discourage the making of agreements between labor unions and management that adversely affect other industries in prices and wages generally, it is today.

Mr. Nixon's views were expressed in hopeful terms. He feels that the growth of inflation has been stopped. He says:

"The progress is not as fast as we want, and we can expect some reverses along the way. But the worst of inflation is over. The lowered rise in the consumer price index, and the much lower rise in wholesale prices and lower interest rates indicate that there will be a further decline of the rate of inflation during the year ahead."

"Have we slowed inflation without a serious decline, as our plan called for? We have — but the nation has paid a price for slowing down the rise in prices. The unemployment figures issued today, while they reflect in part the temporary effects of the auto strike, underscore that fact. Unemployment is at the level of the first half of the '60s, before the Vietnam War buildup began. I believe we can and must do better."

The President points out that businessmen and investors, large and small, have felt a profit squeeze, as corporate profits are down eight per cent from 1969. He emphasizes, therefore, what has to be done to "rejuvenate the economy." He reviews the several steps that have already been taken, such as the growing money supply and easier credit policies. He believes that the stage is set for new expansion of housing and of state and local government construction.

Mr. Nixon frankly says that the federal budget will not be balanced until there is full employment. This is why the emphasis is on stimulating the economy in order to increase revenue collections. He adds: "As the economy rises toward full employment, more money will be required to do the nation's business. The amount of business to be done will rise steadily, and we shall need a rate of expansion of the supply of money and credit to do the job properly. I have been assured by Dr. Arthur Burns that the Independent Federal Reserve System will provide fully for the increasing monetary needs of the economy. I am confident that this commitment will be kept."

This is a definite pledge of lower interest rates, and it will affect the borrowing and lending mechanism of the whole country.

But the biggest unsettled factor is the wage-and-price problem. While productivity is being stressed and the President is calling for restraint at the bargaining table, it is hard for the union leaders to convince the rank-and-file members that they should not seek such advances as were given recently in wages in the auto and construction trades. Mr. Nixon doesn't say he will ask for any legislation to set up wage-and-price "controls." Though he hints that indirect pressures may be applied so as to cause at least a postponement of some of the extremely high scales being discussed for new wage contracts.

The value of a President's speech at a critical time in the condition of the economy lies in what it can do to foster public confidence. Mr. Nixon's appeal is to all groups to assume responsibility for sound policy-making in the matter of wages and prices. He says it is time to end the "back-passing" because, as he declares, "fighting inflation is everybody's business."

In every sense, therefore, what President Nixon said last Friday night at a dinner of the National Association of Manufacturers was a speech of reassurance and a "report to the nation" that millions would like to have heard or still would like to hear the President read to them in full some night soon on television. It's a historic address.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The year is about to end, and I must close the family books once more. Whither go we? Offhand, I would say that my family are the only people who can get up on a horse and gallop off in all directions at the same time. Some live south; some live north; some eat well; some wear hand-me-downs. In our petty bourgeois group, nothing is ever water over the dam because we froze the dam long ago.

My oldest daughter and first girl, Virginia Lee Frechette, expects her eighth baby in May. I had thought that beautiful blue-eyed Amy, now 4, was the last because she told me she was the last. But Dr. Albert Higdon, a great obstetrician who retired from delivering Frechette babies, has agreed to come on stage to take one more bow.

Gayle who had a disastrous marriage and a little girl named Elinor, is now 27, has her own apartment, is happy as a bird in a barn, and works in a morgue. Not a newspaper morgue. A morgue morgue. Her Elinor will be 10 next month, a lively flame who fidgets when she sits and talks at top speed, spilling whatever family secrets are still worth listening to.

Charlie Frechette, the big redhead who should have been my son instead of my son-in-law, works in a supervisory capacity at the Lily Tulip Company, and smiles through his pipe as bedlam rages through his house. He is also civic-minded; elected to the town council; runs the volunteer ambulance mows lawns and makes babies.

Two younger girls are still home with us. Karen, 17, is a truly gorgeous blonde who dates one boy, is in senior class at high school, and would like to leave the state to go to college, but her father will not permit her to be among the unwashed revolutionaries. She'll find a college nearby. She has a heart full of sensitivity for all the ills of the world, and weeps at W.C. Fields movies.

Kathi, 15, has straight brown hair, a pretty kisser you'd love to squeeze with both hands, and a figure. Karen drives to school; Kathi uses the time to comb her hair, adjust her makeup, cream her legs and polish her shoes. Her obsession is the pink princess phone in her bedroom. She lolls on the bed after school talking for hours to girls she has just been with.

Kelly, mother of the brood, is, in my opinion, the most beautiful of all. She has long taffy hair coiled in a bun at the nape of her neck, and looks somewhat like Grace Kelly. Inasmuch as she thinks I'm a genius, she also shows faint glimmerings of intelligence and good taste.

The twin granddaughters, Robin and Pamela, are now 12, as tall as their mother. They are chestnut blondes but, although they are identical twins, Robin is heavier and more self-assertive; Pamela is shy, a born mediator.

Jim is 11, mannerly and obedient as all Frechette children are. He plays football and is interested in science. Kevin is 10, too handsome to be real, a strong sturdy boy who can wear rags and make himself look like a clothes model. Chipper is 8, pale blonde with a pugnacious shoe-button nose, who runs through life, laughing and falling.

Christopher is 7, a loveable kid who wrinkles his entire face to smile at grandpa. Amy, 4, is so feminine that she permits everyone else to dress first, then walks halfway down the stairs in her starched dress, and says, in a cracked voice: "I the queen."

I love to see them grow, but I wish they'd stand still for a moment. I knew them all — and their mothers too — before they were born, and as they laugh and kiss and hug, I recall that I always kissed my father full on the lips. Sometimes I permit myself a moment of pride and tell myself that I spawned all this, but it's not true. Dave Frechette of the Teamsters had a hand in one side of this big family: Frank Gerace Sr. can stake a claim to part of it. And, before our time, there were others who had something to do with spawning us.

Closing the book on 1970 is not difficult. There were a few cut scalps; a black eye or two; a tonsillotomy; a pregnancy; a cascade of silvery laughter; a tear or two shimmering like a diamond on a lower lid.

Talk about hippies if you must; about inflation and pollution and the imminence of the final holocaust. They are worthy of our most solemn assessment. But as for me, I dwell upon how lucky — how very, very lucky — we Bishops were with all our women, and of how all our boys were taught obedience first, and work around the house second.

Jack Anderson Says Billionaire Howard Hughes Is Described as Helpless Invalid

LAS VEGAS — Phantom billionaire Howard Hughes has been depicted by intimates as a "basket case," physically helpless, who has flashes of his old brilliance but spends most of his time in a catatonic stupor.

One member of his inner circle, who claims to have seen Hughes within the past two months, described him as an emaciated invalid with white hair down to his shoulders, shaggy eyebrows, a straggly beard, and grotesquely long fingernails and toenails.

These startling descriptions came from competent sources, whose closeness to Hughes can't be disputed. Yet other intimates, who also have access to him, swore to this column that he is sound in both body and mind. One said Hughes is "eccentric but mentally incisive."

The fabulously rich recluse, who will be 65 on Christmas eve, may finally be forced to come out of hiding for an examination to settle a squabble among his associates. At stake could be control of his $2 billion financial empire.

I flew out to Las Vegas in an attempt to get to the bottom of the Howard Hughes mystery. Before he went into seclusion, I knew him personally and spoke with him frequently. I also became acquainted with some of his most trusted associates. From these sources, I have been able to piece together the following details:

In 1966, Hughes made a cross-country train trip from Los Angeles to Boston for medical treatment. He suffered from complications from earlier plane crashes. His erratic living habits (he would sometimes drive himself for 52 hours at a stretch without sleep) had also been hard on his health.

Stretcher Case?

Because he wanted to conceal his poor health from financial rivals, guards armed with machine guns rode his special train. At the Boston Hospital, Hughes was so hounded by reporters searching for him that he decided to hole up in the Bahamas. But a last-minute call from an adviser persuaded him that the climate and tax benefits would be better in Nevada.

Some intimates say he arrived in Las Vegas four years ago by stretcher. Others claim the stretcher was intended to divert attention from Hughes, who slipped into the Desert Inn on foot with the stretcher-bearing party. All sources agree that he spent the next four years, closeted in the hotel penthouse.

He has been attended, say intimates, by six men among them Howard Eckersley, Roy George Hokum and Lavar Minor. Few others have had access to him. Even his top corporate executives have been obliged to communicate with him through the select six.

Sometimes they delivered Hughes' instructions verbally, other times in his handwriting. He also transacted business by telephone, but he had difficulty hearing.

Robert Maheu, a former publicist and FBI agent, became Hughes' chief factotum in Nevada. The ailing billionaire also relied heavily upon Frank "Bill" Gay, who ran the Los Angeles operations and attended to Hughes' personal needs. Chester Davis, a New York attorney, recently has become a power in the Hughes hierarchy.

The inner circle began squabbling after Hughes put Maheu in charge of a multi-million-dollar lawsuit that Davis was handling. Last month, new orders were handed down from the Desert Inn penthouse cutting Maheu out of the case. Davis, meanwhile, joined Gay in a power struggle against Maheu.

Insiders aligned with the Davis-Gay faction say that Maheu had been keeping Hughes a "virtual prisoner" in Las Vegas and that they persuaded Hughes to leave Nevada to get away from Maheu's influence.

Mysterious Disappearance

The Maheu crowd, in turn, claim their rivals "spirited" the old man out of the country. He disappeared on Thanksgiving Eve as mysteriously as he had arrived on Thanksgiving Day four years earlier. They were able to pull this coup, say the Maheu people, because Gay "controlled" the six men around Hughes.

Maheu insiders cite "medical evidence" that Hughes was unable to resist and unfit to travel. They claim that he had been living on a milk diet, that his hemoglobin count was dangerously low and that he suffered from a respiratory ailment. The controlled climate in his air-conditioned penthouse, they say, was essential to his good health.

The Davis-Gay people, however, assure me that Hughes is in good health and is attended by a full-time doctor. "Mr. Hughes knows what he is doing, and he is doing it very well," Davis told me. He accused Maheu of "poking his nose in where it wasn't wanted" and in the multi-million-dollar lawsuit. Maheu and Gay were unavailable for comment.

A spokesman for the Davis-Gay faction said the billionaire had gone to the Bahamas. It was left up in the air whether he would return. Significantly, he had hankered to move to the Bahamas earlier this year. He ordered an exhaustive study, which warned that racial tension could erupt into a bloodbath.

The 15 per cent white minority has lost political power to the black-oriented progressive Liberal Party, but the whites still dominate the economy. Hughes' confidential report was labeled "downhill" to emphasize the rapid anticipated decline in racial relations. This persuaded Hughes at the time not to move to the Bahamas where, curiously, he is now reported to be.

The Davis-Gay faction, meanwhile, has handwritten authorization from Hughes to oust Maheu. He is challenging its authenticity.

FOOTNOTE: Insiders say Hughes has no heirs and has written no will. His actress wife, Jean Peters, obtained a divorce after 13 years of marriage. By remaining his wife, she could have claimed a large share of his fortune. But those who know her say she wanted to live her own life and was happy to settle for a $150,000 home and $50,000 a year alimony for life.

Looking to 1972

Four Key States Worry Nixon

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — As he looks to 1972, President Nixon has some major political worries in the four big northern states — California, Illinois, Ohio and New Jersey — which he won in 1968.

He also may face a threat to his five-state southern base, most particularly in the two Carolinas, if Governor-elect George Wallace decides to make another run for it but concentrates more heavily on the South.

The eight most populous northern states tend, in presidential tests, to vote pretty much in a common pattern. All eight went for Dwight Eisenhower twice and in 1964 for Lyndon Johnson. Six of eight went for John F. Kennedy. With the partial exception of Massachusetts, they fell within a fairly or very close percentage range of each other.

Twice, in the Nixon-Humphrey race of 1968 and in Harry Truman's narrow 1948 win over Thomas E. Dewey, the northern big eight split four and four. But, again, they were bunched. It was simply that they were around the 50-50 mark on the percentage spectrum, with some falling one way and some the other. The pattern of consistency held.

There is no comfort for Nixon today in the small percentage margins he gained in the four large states he took last time.

In Ohio, the machinery of political command will be in the hands of the newly elected Democratic governor, John Gilligan. Though the GOP now has both U.S. senators, the party is in terrible disarray at the state level.

Political strategists like to see other key races on the ballot in presidential years, to help maximize the turnout. There will be none in Ohio in 1972.

Nor will there be any ballot helpers in California, which Nixon captured narrowly in both 1960 and 1968.

It is not easy to make a case that California's faltering economy is already hurting Nixon. The 1970 results do not prove it. But if defense and space spending are either cut more or just not enlarged in the time ahead, the state seems bound to suffer further. Two years hence, the impact on Nixon might be severe.

Illinois is also tricky. There Nixon will have others — namely Gov. Richard Ogilvie and Sen. Charles Percy — running with him. But Ogilvie has the burden of having put over a personal income tax, and he and Percy most likely will have to appeal to different segments of the Illinois electorate. If the 1972 fates should favor these two, Nixon might benefit from the broad-range vote drawn to the GOP side. But he runs the risk of alienating some voters if he moves too close to either man. Illinois could be a real mine field.

In New Jersey, well down the scale in electoral votes (presently 17) but still in the top 10, the President may have a similar problem. His ballot companion will be the proven liberal vote-getter, Sen. Clifford Case. How close can he draw to Case without hurting conservative elements which are quite strong in New Jersey?

George Wallace will guard his full intent carefully until he thinks the moment right. But several experts here believe he will go again, that this time he will avoid the northern games he loved so much in 1968. Contrary to some judgments, the specialists whom I find weighing this prospect believe Wallace could hold the five southern states he won, and add at least North and South Carolina (whose total of 21 electoral votes equals Michigan's).

Nixon cannot afford to lose this big-state equivalent — or any two of the large northern four he won in 1968. Victory is not likely these days for the man who might win just two of the northern big eight.

BERRY'S WORLD

"...To sum it up—the Vietnam situation looks better, but the Fulbright situation looks worse!"

Viet Vets' Reward: Unemployment

By TOM TIEDE

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Any war is a good war to be a veteran of; at the very least the appellate means one has survived. But for too many veterans of the present war, Vietnam, survival seems to be the very most they've accomplished. They have come back, 2.5 million of them, to a divided, often selfish, preoccupied nation which sometimes seems to have no gratitude for Southeast Asia sacrifice. They have been humiliated by antiwar demonstrators, ignored by the kind of girls who prefer pulling pot to chest ribbons, and, in general, misplaced in the chuffle of national priorities.

But, as if this isn't enough, it is clear now that large numbers of Vietnam veterans are also suffering mightily from the nation's economic situation. According to the Department of Labor, the unemployment rate for Viet vets, age 20-29, has jumped from 4.5 to 6.5 per cent since the first of the year. This figure in some areas rises to as much as 13 per cent. And when only black veterans are considered, jobless statistics zoom all the way up to two out of 10.

200,000 Out of Jobs

Currently, at least 200,000 Viet vets are looking for work.

Like Rosario Antonio, Age 23, A Puerto Rican immigrant. A nice boy. A quiet boy. He believes in things like patriotism, liberty, brotherhood. When he went drafted into the service, he went without complaint. When he was ordered to Vietnam, he went without a ripple. He spent a year as a front-line infantryman with the First Air Cavalry, received the usual complement of metallic best wishes, and today will not even be so bold as to criticize U.S. involvement.

He lives in Brooklyn now, with a wife and a year-old son. He has not had a job in months. The family has taken to welfare, handouts, family assistance. Meals are bits and pieces. The baby eats most. "A loaf of bread will last a week." The landlord is threatening. The grocer wants only cash. Every day Antonio searches newspaper ads, knocks on door after door—but still, he's unemployed.

"I am trained in refrigeration," he says. "I worked five years in this in Puerto Rico. But up here there is the language problem. And everybody says there is no job here. I go to their office. I say, please, mister, I have a wife. And they look at me. And they shake their head and say there is no job here."

Government Cares

Mercifully, it can be said that Rosario Antonio is not entirely forgotten. His landlord and grocer may not know or care that he is jobless but, to some extent, the federal government does. It has initiated a number of "concentrated" programs to assist returning soldiers. Some of them have even worked. The Veterans Administration, for example, has established 70 veterans' assistance centers throughout the nation to handle needy Vietnam returnees. Each center employs professional counselors, social workers and labor department say to assist, whenever necessary, any of the 50-80,000 men discharged every month.

Antonio goes to a center on the west side of Manhattan. He has been going there for a list of two weeks. They treat him well. At least, he says, "they try, they try."

The assistance center does try, for Antonio and for 5,000 others a month. It has a list of 2,000 cooperating businesses it contacts regularly. Like the phone company, the utility company, the hospitals, police department and so forth.

Times Are Tough

But times are tough, the coun-sultors admit. And the people needing jobs, the Antonios, are not the easiest people to employ. They are in fact "disadvantaged veterans." Mostly 21-25, unskilled, uneducated. Some are not functionally literate. The great majority are black and Puerto Rican.

"We do our damndest," says a VA administrator. "We want to get them back to school. We want to get them jobs that aren't dead end. But people aren't hiring right now, that's all."

And so it is that the Manhattan VA office is jammed daily with several dozen frustrated veterans. One is Charles Little, 22, black; he was wounded in "The Nam." He has 15 brothers and sisters and "needs work bad, the baddest I ever did." Another, 23, who is trying to kick a dope habit, needs employment for survival and observes, "Maybe it'd be better if the Nam had killed me."

And one is Rosario Antonio. He's there with his wife, Carmine. She's there with the baby. He smiles. She smiles. The baby smiles. "I got carfare and two subway tokens. That's all. We got nothing to eat. Maybe some milk. All I need is a job. That's it. A man doesn't feel like much without a job."

That says it for thousands of Vietnam veterans. Not all, of course, for the greater portion of vets make it fine. One in four is enrolling in college, eight in 10 have no problem getting jobs. But for the others—the "disadvantaged"—it is somewhat humiliating to come home from the war and go on welfare.

December 7, 1970

The American Side

Editor, The Freeman:

It's ironic that Sylvia Day's most recent condemnation of the United States should be printed on the anniversary of Pearl Harbor.

Mrs. Day's concern for North Vietnamese prisoners held in the South is very touching. But Sylvia's concern is really unnecessary for the simple reason that the camps where North Vietnamese prisoners are detained are subject to periodic inspection by the International Red Cross. Conversely, the North Vietnamese government obdurately refuses to permit impartial inspections of their camps, since they claim that in reality our men are war criminals.

Mrs. Day also failed to mention that the United States has tried virtually every week at the Paris Peace Talks to arrange for prisoner exchanges. The North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong have adamantly refused to discuss the issue.

Another glaring omission in Sylvia's letter was the episode last year when wounded North Vietnamese were returned to their native land by sea despite the strong objections of their governmental leaders.

In her letter, Mrs. Day made a strong case for the condemnation of the United States military and its leaders. If anyone is interested in the American side, facts may be secured by writing POW/MIA, 1 Constitution Avenue, Washington, D. C. 20002. This organization is headed by that grand American actor Jimmy Stewart.

'Silent Majority'

Editor, The Freeman:

We wish to take this opportunity to thank all those citizens who contributed to the Ulster County Buckley for Senator Campaign Fund. Without your generous support we would not have been able to wage the vigorous campaign here in the county to elect James L. Buckley to the United States Senate. Most important we would like to thank everyone who cast his vote for James L. Buckley. It is pleasing and gratifying to know that the "Silent Majority" is willing to rise to the cause, when the future of the country is at stake.

We also want to extend our thanks to the members of the Youth for Buckley and the Young Americans for Freedom. You did a fabulous job. We look forward to working with you in the future.

I personally want to thank the people in the Bloomington, Creek Locks, and Maple Hill area who responded to my door to door campaign for funds. Once again your support was greatly appreciated.

Respectfully yours,

Herman Kahn, GNP Expert, Tips World Powers to Japan

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

NEW YORK—(NEA)—In the land of the Rising Sun, Herman Kahn is known as the man who made GNP a household word.

"In Japan," says Kahn, "they watch their GNP the same way we watch baseball scores."

GNP, it should be quickly noted, stands for Gross National Product, which per se has as much zap as the numbers on your driver's license. Actually, it's a country's total output of goods and services valued at market prices.

Because part of the Japanese national character is a fetish about being No. 1 in everything, Kahn satisfies a psychic craving.

In his new book, "The Emerging Japanese Superstate" (Prentice Hall), Kahn predicts Japan will equal the United States as the world's dominant economic power by the end of the 20th century. On his charts for the future, each will have a GNP of $3 trillion, give or take a few bucks. (Current figures: U.S. GNP—$1 trillion; Japan GNP—$200 billion.)

"I talk with the Japanese," says Kahn, who has visited the country five times since he became absorbed in studying its future five years ago, "and I agree with them. When I conduct a lecture, I watch audiences like a hawk. I notice when I mention 'daichi' (number one) even the cleaning lady in the hall stops to listen. It's a nation that likes hierarchy, that wants to be number one."

And so Premier Eisaku Sato was able to pitch his most recent campaign for reelection on the premise that "the distinguished American scientist Herman Kahn predicts a great future for Japan." The premier, of course, added, "—only if I'm reelected."

Kahn, who is director of the Hudson Institute up the Hudson River from New York, has gained considerable notoriety as a "futurist" even if he doesn't like the word.

"We're policy planners and researchers," he says. "Futurism was first used by an Italian fascist group. The movement is sometimes called futurology, also a bad word. Futurists tend to be ideologically committed and as a result much of their work turns out to be a sermon rather than a serious study."

Kahn doesn't look like the sermon type. The words pour out of the face of a scowling cherub with owl glasses and a stubble of graying hair. The body

Prefers Scrooge

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor John V. Lindsay says he'll go along with being narrator in a musical production of "A Christmas Carol" but he'd rather play the role of Scrooge the crusty old tightwad.

"I'd be the best Scrooge in town. I have the urge to be Scrooge," the mayor said as he took time out Monday from his budget-planning chores to rehearse his part at the Robert F. Kennedy Theater for Children.

Lindsay will narrate the first of nine performances of the Charles Dickens classic which annually draws an audience of 30,000 youngsters.

expanding jowl, to make even a Sumo wrestler look puny.

"I get away with murder when I visit Japan," he says in a gasp-giggle, "because they think I look like Buddha."

As an analyst of national traits, he deals in a brand of snappy iconoclasm.

"The Japanese practice the international ethic to the extreme," he says. "They're terribly polite when they're supposed to be. They're terribly rude when they're not supposed to be polite."

Kahn does not speak Japanese.

"Japan has social unity," he continues. "It's the only group that feels like a pure race. The Japanese have the only resource that counts—people. Red China? There's no superpatriotism there. The Chinese are too civilized."

"The issue in the world in the next 10 years is going to be Russia-United States-Japan-China. In the 1970s, Japan will go from large to gigantic along with being narrator in a musical production of 'A Christmas Carol' but he'd rather play the role of Scrooge the crusty old tightwad."

"It's important for the United States to stay in East Asia to remove temptation from the Japanese. Their business won't accept my numbers (on economic growth). Their government will."

So will other governments. He's working now on an internationally financed study of corporate environment, to analyze the impact of new technology. Pollutionists beware.

United Auto Workers Turn to Chrysler

DETROIT (UPI)—The United Auto Workers today turned its attention to Chrysler Corp., the last of the automotive big three without a national contract agreement with the union. Ratification of its contract with Ford Motor Co. began today as the union's 166,000 members at Ford began voting on a tentative agreement which was recommended for acceptance Tuesday by the UAW's Ford Council. The results were expected to be known by next Tuesday.

Within hours of the Ford Council's recommendation for ratification, the company announced it was boosting the prices of its 1971 model cars an average $15. It was the second increase announced since the 1971 prices came out Sept. 15 and brought the prices of 1971 models to $187, or 5.6 per cent. higher than comparable 1970 models.

Douglas Fraser, head of the union's Chrysler Department, said he expected a contract agreement covering the union's 120,000 members at Chrysler would be reached by Dec. 18. No strike deadline has been set by the union at Chrysler. The company was expected to settle for the same terms gained by the UAW at Ford and General Motors.

INDICTED

Former Manhattan Borough President Hulan Jack and five others were indicted by a Federal grand jury Tuesday on charges of labor-management fraud operating in the Harlem community for about five years. The primary offense charged in the indictment was a complex scheme to reap profits from fees paid by major food and drink manufacturers to Coordinated Community Services, Inc., a corporation allegedly controlled by Jack and the other defendants. ## 60-Day Sentence On Possession of Stolen Property

TOWN OF OLIVE
A 29-year-old New York City man was sentenced to 60 days in the Ulster County Jail Tuesday night after pleading guilty to possession of stolen property.

Anthony Paul Rodriguez was arrested Nov. 18 by State Police and town constables after he was stopped on Route 28 for a routine vehicle and traffic check. Authorities subsequently learned the car Rodriguez was driving had been reported stolen in New York City.

The arrest was made by Troopers N. L. Kilfoyle and J. J. Brainard of the Kingston Zone Headquarters and Constables Walter Lang and Carl Swenson.

Sentence, Fine For City Man On Guilty Pleas

KINGSTON
A 21-year-old man arrested two weeks ago in connection with the reported theft of a 1970 car from the Chevrolet garage on upper Broadway, appeared Tuesday before City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

John Paul Palen Jr., of 108 McEntee Street, pleaded guilty to unauthorized possession of a driver's license, unlicensed operation of a motor vehicle and driving the wrong way on a one-way street. He was sentenced to 30 days on each of the charges involving the license and fined $10 or five days in jail on the one-way street count.

Man Jailed In Lieu of Fine

TOWN OF ULSTER
A 24-year-old Kingston man was fined $50 or 10 days in the county jail Monday after pleading guilty to a charge of petit larceny before Town Justice Sherwood E. Davis.

Security Officer Harry Whittle at Big Scot's store said Robert Putnam of 214 East Union Street, Kingston, was accused of taking a pair of men's shoes valued at $10.99 from the store. Whittle and Trooper W. T. Wilson of the Kingston Zone Headquarters of State Police made the arrest.

In lieu of payment of the fine, Putnam was committed to jail until the fine is paid.

Judge Richter directed that the sentences run consecutively and Palen was given credit for time served in the county jail since his arrest on Nov. 23.

The defendant waived preliminary examination on charges of third degree burglary and second degree grand larceny and those cases were referred to the grand jury for investigation. A charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle also was referred to the grand jury.

Palen was arrested in the Coney Island area after Kingston police had sent out teletype alarms reporting a break-in at the uptown garage and the disappearance of a car valued at $6,000 and owned by Ronald Bahorik of 12 Princeton Street, Red Hook. Bahorik told authorities that he left the vehicle at the Chevrolet garage for a check-up and later he learned the car had been taken.

Golfing Star Palmer Honorary Dimes Head

KINGSTON — amassing 70 championships in professional tournament competition of national or international stature. Fifty-five of these were won on the U.S. tour, starting with victory in the Canadian Open in 1955. Palmer said in accepting this national appointment "I am happy to join in this great effort and I sincerely believe that we cannot participate in a more worthy activity. The prevention of birth defects, guaranteeing to the extent we can, that every child has the right to be born healthy is a most important contribution to our nation's health."

Library Sets Holiday Fete For Children

KINGSTON — The Kingston Area Library will be holding a special Christmas party for children, Friday Dec. 18 from 3:30 to 5 p.m. All children between the ages of 3 and 10 may attend. There will be movies, games, singing, refreshments, and Santa is expected to make an appearance. Miss Mary-Lou Terpening, a member of the library staff will be directing this party. She was also responsible for the very successful mask making contest held at the library just before Halloween. Children may check out books before or after the Christmas party. The library has a number of Christmas and Chanukah stories which are appropriate for various age levels. The Children's Library is opened from 1-5 daily throughout the school holiday.

Accountants Plan Dinner

Merchants Across Country Anticipate Good Christmas Sales

NEW YORK (UPD) — Merchants across the country anticipate reasonably Merry Christmas sales because Americans traditionally loosen purse strings during the Yule season even when times are tough. That faith is being justified to some extent, according to a survey by United Press International. It indicates the Christmas shopping season is off to a good start in most areas, but not everywhere. In cities such as Seattle and Wichita, hard hit by defense industry cutbacks, merchants expect a grim season. Nationally, about the best Christmas counters, the hoped for is to equal or slightly better last year's dollar sales. Considering the 5 per cent no slowdown in their phenomenal inflation of money for the year, al growth over the last decade, that actually translates into a slight decrease in the physical volume of goods going over the hunts and uncles get lopped off the shopping list because of the current recession. Restrained shopping was forecast rather clearly in the Yule catalogues leading department stores and mail order houses. It's likely to be an unusual Yule season in another respect, noted on the past flamboyance conscious of misery caused by said, "We're accepting the fact that the public attitude on sions, many prestige stores are extravagance has changed." And the management of Bonwit Teller, a de luxe Fifth Avenue store in New York, said — "We want to avoid things that look frivolous."

Many Sad, Depressed People on Holidays

CHICAGO (AP) — The season to be jolly makes a lot of people sad.

They are suffering from what psychiatrists often call "Christmas neurosis." The holiday makes them feel lonely, sad and depressed.

And in reactions to it, some people may drink too much or engage in extramarital affairs of sexual deviancy, or other activities in which they normally don't engage, psychiatrists have reported.

Dr. George H. Pollack, director-designate of The Institute for Psychoanalysis, says, "At times people do various things to overcome a depressed feeling." In an interview, he cited the reputation for moral looseness at Christmas office parties as an attempt to achieve "pseudo happiness."

The Thanksgiving Christmas period is a time for family-centered festivities, says Pollack, who has made studies of psychological problems associated with anniversaries, and with reactions to mourning.

"Those who might have various kinds of unfinished business with their family—or who have no family—have a greater tendency at this time to experience loneliness, depression, sadness—a missing of togetherness."

There's no way of estimating how many people feel depressed at Christmas, he said, but for those who do, Dr. Pollack advises "doing some soul searching on their own" to try to determine what is making them unhappy. Being aware of a problem can open up mental associations which help to overcome the problem, he said. The holiday neurosis usually ends after the holiday.

And if a friend or relative has the Christmas blues, it doesn't do any good just to tell him to cheer up, Dr. Pollack said. The person has a reason for his depression. He needs to try to understand why.

Satchmo, Cash Paired For Television Show

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Could this little old man, shuffling up to the ramp to the Grand Ole Opry stage, be the same one who had conquered Russia, the Congo, South America and, in fact, the civilized world?

Incredible, it seemed, until he donned an outside, white 10-gallon hat, the director said, "All right, ready for rehearsal," and the great Louis Armstrong flashed his white teeth and let loose his gravel voice in song—country song.

It happened at the rehearsal of the taping session for a recent Johnny Cash television show. Satchmo's first TV appearance as a musician after two years of intensive care for a series of heart and kidney disorders.

After mounting the stage, Armstrong walked unsteadily on his 70-year-old legs to a lonely seat in the set version of Cash's den—and ran through a few hesitant riffs on his gold-plated trumpet. Then, he waited quietly—almost meekly—for the confusion to die.

But he came to life on camera, singing a medley of songs from his new "Louis 'Country and Western' Armstrong" album with background provided by the Carter Family.

The small rehearsal audience was captivated—and Satchmo's performance brought a broad grin to the lips of the usually somber Cash. At the taping a night later, Armstrong won two standing ovations for his singing—and for reviving memories lost in the past 40 years, when he brought out that horn and accompanied Cash's version of "Blue Yodel No. 9."

Satch originally recorded the song in 1930 with Jimmie Rodgers, the singing brakeman who is credited with being the original country and western recording star in America. At the time, Satch had graduated from second trumpet to first trumpet in King Oliver's band.

Satch was asked if he felt his singing "Almost Persuaded," "Running Bear" and "Rambling Rose"—all country songs from his album—represents a new departure in his career, at a time when a lot of folks feel it's time to sit back and rest.

"I don't look at it that way," he said. "It's just playing music, period. Long ago I was playing 'Your Cheating Heart' and 'Cold, Cold Heart.' Now we have the same, although it's getting to be in black and white."

As for "changing" Louis Armstrong, Cash had a line in his show which pretty well sums that up: "America has produced three entertainment forms: jazz, country and Louis Armstrong."

Traffic, Revenue Up on the Hudson River Bridges

POUGHKEEPSIE Traffic and revenues were up an average of 11 per cent last month compared to November of 1969 on the five bridges over the Hudson River according to the New York State Bridge Authority, headquartered at the Mid-Hudson Bridge, here.

Traffic on the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge showed the lowest overall increase, from 171,066 in November of last year to 178,884 in last month, an increase of 7.818 per cent. Revenues were up $2,283 to $44,520 for last month.

As has been the case for the past four years, the Newburgh-Beacon Bridge showed the largest increase in traffic, 14.9 per cent, rising from 410,738 last November to 506,224 last month, and in revenue, increasing its take by 22.9 per cent based on figures of $122,578 for November 1969 as compared to $150,630 for November of this year. The disproportionate increase of revenue over traffic indicates an increase in heavy traffic, such as trucks and buses, over the Newburgh Bridge.

The Rip Van Winkle Bridge, at Catskill, of late, has showed some significant increase, rising 14.6 per cent in traffic for November of last year compared to 155,296 in November of this year, an increase of 19.758.

The Mid-Hudson Bridge recorded in November of last year to the 452,034 recorded last month. The bridge showed an increase of 21,568 last month.

Teamster Local 445 Joins Petition to Free Hoffa

KINGSTON Teamster Local 445, comprising some 8,000 members in seven Hudson Valley counties, has joined its more than 2,000,000 fellow Teamsters in a petition drive to get Teamster President James Hoffa freed from prison by Christmas.

Theodore G. Daley, secretary-treasurer of Local 445, is coordinating the drive in the seven counties covered by that local, Ulster, Dutchess, Orange, Putnam, Westchester, Sullivan and Rockland. The drive started two weeks ago and has gathered "five thousand signatures of life persons from all walks of life who feel that Jimmy Hoffa was unjustly convicted," according to Daley.

The petition reads as follows:

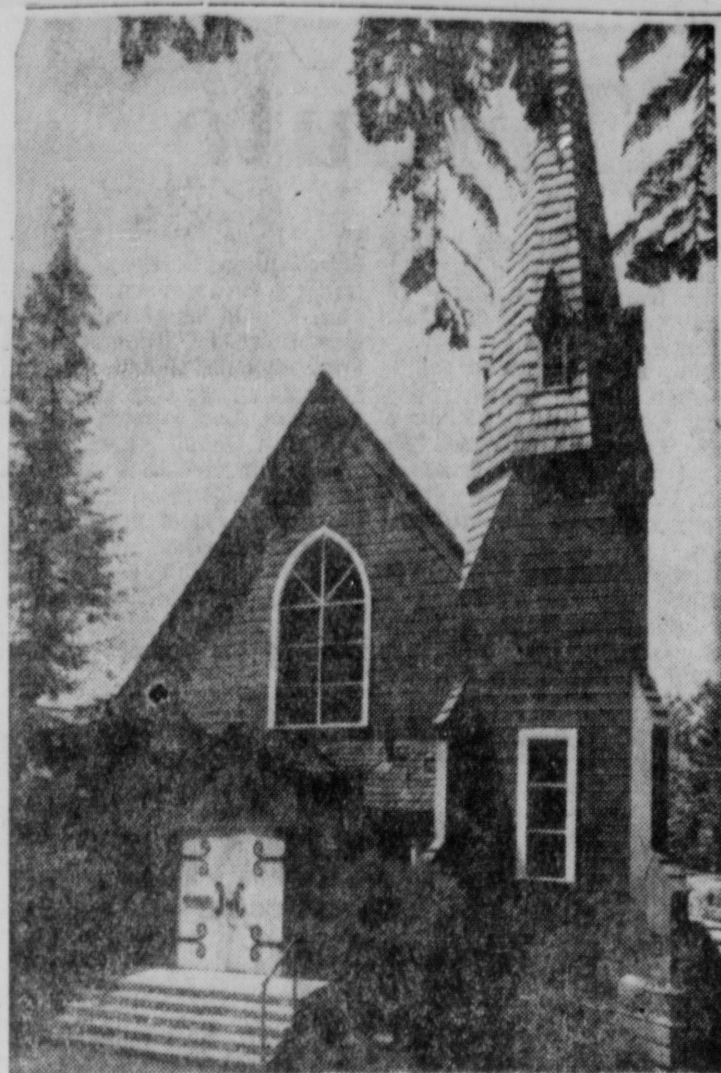

"Whereas, we are totally convinced of the absolute injustice perpetrated against Teamsters General President James R. Hoffa through a campaign of persecution unrivaled in the annals of American justice and

"Whereas, this persecution is an offense against every right we hold sacred as Americans and has deprived Teamsters and organized labor in general of the dynamic leadership and inspired courage of James R. Hoffa and

"Whereas, this unequalled act of persecution cries out to be made right and have James R. Hoffa returned to his family and the 2 million members of his union so that he may resume his position of leadership, and

"Therefore, we petition the President of this great nation to correct the injustice and pardon James R. Hoffa and return him to his family and his union."

Hoffa was convicted of jury tampering and sentenced to an eight-year term almost three years ago.

RIPLEY HOME — "The Church of One Tree," an historical landmark in Santa Rosa, Calif., where cartoonist Robert L. Ripley, was born will be the home for a Ripley Memorial Museum which will be dedicated Dec. 21. The church was made famous in a Ripley "Believe It or Not" cartoon. Built in Gothic style by a Baptist congregation around 1870, the church was constructed from the lumber of one large redwood tree which yielded 78,000 board feet. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

SISTER MARY GERALD

First Coleman Principal Community Joins Tribute

The first principal of John A. Coleman High School, Sister Coleman High School is sponsoring a testimonial dinner Saturday night.

Sister Gerald was principal of the school for its four years as 7 o'clock. Joseph D. Saccoman is general chairman of the testimonial. She previously taught at the Academy of St. Ursula. Sister Gerald was reassigned as head of the English Department at Notre Dame High School, Manhattan this fall.

The event is open to all parents, friends of the school and members of the community who wish to join in paying tribute to Sister Mary Gerald's years of devotion to the school and the students.

A native of Kingston, Sister Mary Gerald was a graduate of the Academy of St. Ursula. She entered the order of St. Ursula in July, 1947 taking her perpetual vows in August, 1954.

A graduate of Fordham University with a bachelor of science degree and St. Mary's Notre Dame, Ind., with a master of arts degree, she holds a Diploma Magisterii in Science from Regina Mundi in Rome.

Prior to being principal of Coleman High School, Sister Mary Gerald was principal of and Mrs. Louis Spada and Mrs. Daniel Kelley.

It is expected that more than 100 area residents will join in the expression of gratitude and tribute Saturday night. Menu

John A. Coleman High School calls for a full course roast parents who are assisting in the arrangements are Mr. and Mrs. Cashin, Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Hastings, Mr. and

Christmas Risk, Reality

WOODSTOCK, Instead of an exchange of gifts, the women of the church have been preparing Christmas gifts and messages for the Weatherall Family of Mississippi. All women of the congregation are invited to attend the meeting and bring a friend. The WSCS of the Overlook United Methodist Church will hold its monthly meeting on Monday in the church parlor. "Christmas Risk and Reality" will be the theme and all members are asked to wear green.

Unity Service Planned

SAUGERTIES Representatives of the Saugerties Council of Churches and St. Mary of the Snow Catholic Church Council met at the home of Miss Carolyn Wood to plan a Christian Unity Service to be held at St. Mary of the Snow Catholic Church on Jan. 17. Those participating in preparation an outline for the service were the Rev. Alvin Messersmith, Miss Carolyn Wood, Mrs. John Drewes, and Mrs. Charles Ollinger. Another meeting will be held with the Ecumenical Committee of St. Mary of the Snow Council to work out further details. All churches of the Saugerties area are invited to attend the Christian Unity Service in January.

Arrangements for a Christmas dinner were outlined at the recent meeting of the Queen of the Catskill Mountains Rebekah Lodge 36 held at the IOOF Hall. At this time the Vice Grand Madeline O'Neill, presided.

Final plans were made to hold the Christmas dinner on Dec. 19. All Odd Fellows have been invited. There will be an exchange of gifts. A hot dinner will be served at 6 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Yakin will make the preparations for the dinner.

Holiday Closing

Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, superintendent of schools, announces that all Saugerties Central Schools will close at the end of the school day on Wednesday, Dec. 23, for the Christmas holiday period, and will reopen Monday, Jan. 4, 1971.

Youth Crime Greatly Exaggerated... Criminologist

By GLORIA WOLFORD
NEW YORK (UPI)—Two youths, knock down an old woman and steal her purse. Another takes a car. A fourth lifts a sweater from a department store.

Each case is treated as another symptom of a rising tide of youth crime threatening to drown the nation. In reality, according to criminologist Michael Fooner, youths account for a small percentage of crime.

"Youth crime and youth power in politics have one thing in common—gross exaggeration," says Fooner, a professor at Hunter College and author of "Studies on Crime Prevention." "Each is an adult-made image of America's young people based on fact mixed with fancy, fact being the smallest ingredient." While young people are often blamed for the bulk of the nation's crime, Fooner said, police actually charge them with little more than 10 per cent of the serious crime.

Half the Population
If the term "youth" is expanded from the 18-year limit to 25 years, young people account for 17 per cent, although they comprise 50 per cent of the nation's population.

Serious crimes include murder, forcible rape, aggravated assault, robbery, burglary, larceny of $50 or more and auto theft. These are called index crimes by the FBI. Fooner says the statistics on arrests of youths for serious crimes should be adjusted per cent of the cases. downward because "arrested Americans have seen crime does not mean guilty" and grow from about two million young people, lacking the resources of adult criminals, present annual rate of 5.5 are more likely to get arrested, million, with the prospect of Auto theft is traditionally close of 1972," Fooner said, statistics show persons under 18 "Mass anxiety seeks relief are arrested only in about 10.5 from our feelings of alarm by giving it a name—youth crime. Reflect Crime Patterns

Today's 18-year-olds were but 8 years of age when the present decade of booming crime began. Criminality among the young is a reflection of adult crime patterns, but proportionately small in quantity.

Another reason for preoccupation with youth crime, Fooner said, may be the vast bureaucracy built up to deal with "juvenile delinquents." The bureaucracy began as an emotional response to the need to "rehabilitate the little tykes—the Oliver Twist image" and now must perpetuate the youth crime myth to perpetuate itself, he said. At the same time, Fooner said, American society and its institutions have made crime an extra career choice for youth. Rehabilitation programs for young people, Fooner said, are "more verbal cop-outs than anything else." "Youthful offenders are not being rehabilitated because no effective facilities have ever been developed," he said. "Nobody knows what the effective facilities are. Nobody has ever looked for them."

FRISKY BUSINESS — Police frisk youth rounded up for questioning. However, according to criminologist Michael Fooner, a professor at Hunter College and author of "Studies on Crime Prevention," youths account for a small percentage of crime. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Women Order Most Yule Cards

NEW YORK (UPI)—When it comes to selecting and sending Christmas cards, it's a woman's holiday.

The National Association of Greeting Card Publishers estimates that the majority of 2.5 billion Christmas cards that will be sent this year will be ordered by women. Women also decide about the signatures on the cards and, sooner or later, the colorful Christmas greetings will be mailed by women.

"Actually," said Steve Shannon, executive director of the association, "women are more particular about selecting Christmas cards than anything except possibly their clothes. They want to convey their holiday greetings in a friendly personal way, just as they would express them in person."

"In most families, it's the lady of the house that will be shopping for anywhere from 50 to 300 Christmas cards. She'll have someone definitely in mind for each one of them. Being a woman, she is more thoughtful and possibly more sentimental than the masculine side of the family."

Shannon cautions male shoppers before they start sputtering protests. He said a man started it all. Louis Prang, publisher of the first American line of Christmas cards in Roxbury, Mass., back in 1875, introduced the yuletide custom to America, at the suggestion of a business associate's wife.

New Ulster County Business May Dent Unemployment Lines

JACKSON AND THE KOSKOT KOSMETICS LINE

"You are what you think you are," is the philosophy of a newly established company that may make an invaluable contribution towards denting the unemployment lines in Ulster County.

Raleigh Enterprises, a Lake Katrine based distributing firm for Koskot Kosmetics will place its emphasis on the hiring of unskilled and unemployed workers. Raleigh L. Jackson, firm's founder and president, expects that some 300 jobless residents will eventually be employed in administrative, service and sales positions with the firm.

Jackson, of course, has been active in the community-wide fight against unemployment for several years. A member of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce Area Manpower Development Committee, he has been a leader in the Project STEP program, which acts as a training and placement service for jobless and chronic unemployed citizens of Kingston.

The credo of Raleigh Enterprises is one adopted by Jackson himself. Determined to do more than his share in the effort to curb unemployment and poverty, Jackson recently resigned from his post as administrative assistant in programming education at IBM to devote full time to his new business.

"Inspiration," "success" and "belief" are three key words in Jackson's new business venture. He sees his firm as an inspiration to jobless workers who will be given a new start in life. Their success, as well as that of Raleigh Enterprises, will rest in large part on the belief the workers have in themselves.

Koskot Kosmetics are manufactured and sold by Koskot Interplanetary, Inc. Jackson is a member of the Koskot Distributors Association of Fishkill and his firm will service the Ulster County area with the Koskot beauty products.

The Koskot line of cosmetics is prepared with an exclusive oil of mink formulation which its makers claim possesses exceptional qualities in skin care.

Prior to joining IBM at Kingston three years ago, Jackson was employed by Colgate-Palmolive Co. at Jersey City, N.J., as a programmer. He attended Rutgers University at Newark, N.J., and Central

EMPLOYEES MAKE MOVE — Going over papers of the 32 Varifab, Inc., employees who recently joined the Ulster County Blood Bank, Inc., are (L-R) Mrs. Mary Banach, director of personnel and bookkeeping; William Prezley, operations manager at the High Falls firm; and Wilfred Springer, executive director of the bank. The mass move by the employees gives Varifab the largest showing of members in the blood protection plan. (CTA photo).

Varifab Largest Blood Backer

HIGH FALLS Thirty-two employees of Varifab, Inc. of High Falls have become members of the Ulster County Blood Bank, making them the largest single group from one firm to join, according to Wilfred Springer, the Bank's executive director.

Mrs. Mary Banach, director of personnel and bookkeeping at the High Falls firm, coordinated the joining, said Springer who also commented that she had a "personal reason for being interested."

The evening before the signing of papers for the Varifab workers' participation in the Bank, Mrs. Banach's husband, Joseph, was admitted to the Benedictine Hospital in Kingston in a condition requiring emergency blood transfusion, said Springer.

"I know the Blood Bank cannot help my husband in this case," she told Springer, "but it sure showed me that you never know when you will need it." The executive director said that Mrs. Banach told her fellow employees of her situation, suggesting they sign up for their own protection.

"If that can happen in my family, it can happen to anyone at anytime," she said. "Who would think that the day before they planned to join a blood bank they would need so much help."

Springer lauded the employees for joining the Bank and for showing their confidence in the blood replacement plan as he called on individuals and firms throughout Ulster County to consider membership in the organization.

Under the Blood Bank plan, members pay a $2 enrollment fee plus $1 annual dues to have themselves and their dependents covered for free blood replacement in any of the three hospitals in Ulster County.

Once they are members, they will be called upon to donate a pint of blood into the plan in rotation with all other members. The present timetable of giving blood is once every 18 months or longer.

Springer noted that "you do not give blood" when you join the bank. After you become a member you are placed in the rotation file and can expect to be called about 60 days after joining. You are then given one month to either give one pint of blood yourself, have anyone give it in your name or pay the blood equivalent fee of $27.50."

In addition to the benefits offered inside Ulster County, Springer said that members who travel outside of the county are covered in a limited manner anywhere in the continental United States.

Persons and groups wishing more information on this community service plan are asked to write to the executive director at CPO Box "T", members. The present Blood Bank is a member agency of the Community Chest.

The Most Exciting Headache News In Years!

Doctors' Tests In Treating Nervous Tension Headaches Now Made Public

Non-Narcotic Tablet That Needs No Prescription Proves Just As Effective As The Expensive, Leading Pain-Relief Prescription Of Doctors.

If you're one of the many who get tense, nervous headaches, these latest tests by doctors should be of the greatest importance.

In recent medical tests doctors proved a famous tablet that needs no prescription gives the same complete headache relief as the expensive, leading prescription of doctors.

These doctors' tests proved, beyond a doubt, that Anacin is just as effective to relieve tension headaches, yet Anacin needs no prescription and is far more economical.

With Anacin, headache pain and its nervous tension vanish in minutes. Despite its strength, Anacin is not narcotic. You can take it without getting dizzy or an upset stomach.

Next time take powerful, fast-acting Anacin. Anacin Tablets give the same complete headache pain relief as the leading prescription product for which doctors wrote 21 million prescriptions last year.

Innovation Move On Leadership

NEW PALTZ The Ulster County Teachers Council is sponsoring what is perhaps an innovation in leadership programs presented in the Mid-Hudson area.

Under the coordination of council president, Ron Noelle of New Paltz High School, area educators and professional consultants have created a leadership training experience which makes use of some of the newest behavioral science techniques.

The sensitivity group approach will be used to bring program members into intensive participation. Group participants will strive to accomplish a number of practical leadership goals, including analyzing leadership and its affects on group attitudes, reducing conflict, and using available resources and information for quality decision-making.

Great emphasis will be placed upon developing the art of preception and practicing effective leadership styles.

The program will take place at the Camelot Motor Inn, Poughkeepsie, beginning Friday afternoon and running until Saturday. The sessions are open to all area educators. Others wishing to attend may contact Noelle at the New Paltz High School, New Paltz.

On Way Out

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Jack Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, says dirty movies are on the way out.

"My judgement is the sexploitation film, mostly imported from abroad or made cheaply and quickly in this country, is fading," Valenti said Monday. "The young and educated find this trash unlightening, and what is more to the point, boring."

The Trade Bill — Some Vital ABCs

WASHINGTON. (UPI) — A deeply divided U.S. Senate is about to open debate on a trade bill which if enacted, both sides agree, will have a profound impact on American business, workers and consumers for years to come.

They agree on little else. Advocates say the bill will save jobs. They say 381,500 jobs have already been "exported" to low-wage, highly productive nations such as Japan, explaining in part the nation's current economic doldrums.

Opponents say enactment would mean $3.7 billion worth of higher prices for clothes and shoes for American consumers. They argue other countries would retaliate, depriving this country of markets for its exports and deepening the economic slump.

A bill comparable to the one which goes before the Senate next week already has passed the House. Here are some questions and answers about the Senate measure:

Q. What would the bill do?
A. It's called the "Trade Extension Act of 1970" but the name is ironic. Primarily, it is intended to stem the flow of foreign-made clothes, textiles and footwear into the U.S. market and create machinery making it a lot easier for other industries deemed "severely or acutely" injured by imports to get relief from the tariff commission and the President.

Q. Why does the bill come up now?

A. There has been protectionist pressure in Congress for years, but a number of factors jelled in 1970. President Nixon, during his 1968 campaign, promised the textile-producing South relief from the competition of Asian textiles. Then, when negotiations with Japan for a voluntary quota got nowhere, a textile quota bill was introduced in the House as a spur to the Japanese to negotiate.

Q. Does President Nixon want the bill?

A. Nobody's certain. The President some time ago said he would veto a measure that provided for more than textile quotas, but he's been silent recently.

The State Department is unhappy with the bill, fearing hard feelings abroad. The Commerce Department, more responsive to the business community, supports the bill. But it shares the White House's disappointment that "the DISC provision" has been dropped by the finance committee.

Q. The DISC provision?

A. That stands for "Domestic International Sales Corporation." Basically, it's a device to give about $80 million a year in tax cuts to American corporations which export. The idea is to spur the manufacture of goods for export. Other countries offer similar incentives to sell overseas.

Q. Who's against that?

A. The AFL-CIO is and so are a number of Senate liberals. They say DISC amounts to a tax subsidy to reward businesses for exporting—something they do anyway. They said a handful of exporting companies would reap the benefits.

Rhinebeck Village

Leaf Burning Hearing Slated

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK The State Commission on Environmental Control will conduct a hearing in mid-February to hear opinion on the possibility of exempting the Village of Rhinebeck from the leaf burning laws.

This information was read by Mayor Peter F. Sipperley at the regular Village Board meeting Tuesday night, and was immediately challenged as illegal by Trustee David Queen, who has opposed any repeal of the law since joining the board one year ago.

Queen gave as his reasons for challenging the legality of the hearing the opinion that it was "one man's" directive, not a petition from the Village Board as required by law, that had asked for this hearing. He said that if the hearing were held he would personally be there and challenge it.

Sipperley said the dates set will be either Feb. 17, 18, or 19 at 10 a.m. at the Town Hall of Rhinebeck. The board will ask the state to set the hearing time for evening so that more people may attend.

Rhinebeck's battle with the leaf burning issue has been continuous since restrictions were clamped down, supposedly to reduce the air pollution level. The law has not been enforced, and Sipperley has repeatedly tried to get permission from various state and county agencies to permit some type of burning to reduce the heavy toll of manhours spent harvesting the leaf crop every year.

Trustees Frank Kinney and Eugene Trombini each noted Tuesday night that they would be willing to spend a little more taxpayers' money to protect the asthmatic residents from burning, and no total agreement was reached among members on how to proceed from this point.

In other village business, additional regulations concerning specifications for cutting down trees were spelled out and are available in the village offices when a permit is sought.

Frank Kinney asked that consideration be given routine visits for inspection of the water plant by either a night watchman or a member of the Village Police Department. He added that he hoped additional police personnel might be added in the next village budget.

Trustee Queen said that additional woes have beset the water plant, with cracks forming in the sedimentation tank and under the floor is settling, leading him to believe that there is a hollow space underneath caused by this past summer's plant failure and flood.

Sipperley said that $18,000 has been billed thus far for repairs to the water plant, with an almost sure bet to total more than $20,000 in the final analysis. And all members agreed that a drain must be installed under the floor to forestall a repeat flooding under any circumstances.

Some persons in the village are thought to be using well water instead of village water, in violation of the zoning ordinance. Sipperley explained that many wells were drilled during the drought several years back, and he as a plumber helped with many of them. Village attorney Robert Winnie questioned the legality of the prohibition.

Judge DeWitt Gurnell was appointed police justice to replace retiring Judge George Harrington in Justice William Pollard's absence.

And Sipperley warned village residents to watch out for reportedly fraudulent frozen food and magazine telephone solicitations, which have been plaguing the area of late.

CHARTER NIGHT — Company charters and plaques of acknowledgement were exchanged by Junior Achievement companies and their counseling firms Tuesday night. Taking part in the joint presentations were (L-R) Francis H. Delaney, general manager of IBM, Kingston; Andrea Elting, JA president of Quality Products; Avery Thompson, JA president of Baypip and Don Ridgway vice president and general sales manager of Rotron Inc. The other JA firm is Shadowcraft with Huckrot as counseling company. The charters give the JA companies the right to do business and the plaques acknowledge the counseling participation of the advisory firms. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Town of Red Hook

Decrease in Next Year's Tax Rate

RED HOOK Final figures on the tax rate next year for the Town of Red Hook show a decrease of town taxes of $2.33 per thousand assessed valuation, said Supervisor Warren Simmons at

Tuesday night's Town Board meeting. He emphasized that this does not include the county tax. Those residing outside the Village of Red Hook will pay $22.32 in 1971, and those in the village $8.43, a decrease of 66 cents per thousand. The town equalization rate is listed as 22 per cent.

Simmons announced a Public Service Commission hearing to be held Friday at 11 a.m. at the Town Hall for the purpose of discussing water rates requested by the Annandale Water Company in Linden Acres and College Park developments.

He read a letter of resignation by Highway Superintendent Harold Trow, effective Dec. 30, 1970, wherein Trow noted that he had been advised by his doctor that his health was poor and he had been advised to change his line of work.

Trow commented in the letter that he would help out until Dec. 30, but said he felt he could not withstand the rigors of the job for another winter. The board accepted his resignation with regrets.

Simmons answered a query by The Freeman concerning the next appointment to the highest paid town office by saying that arrangements would have to be made through town committeemen and board recommendations, and that a successor might be a while in being named. Meanwhile, a temporary superintendent might be named.

The board also named Clarence "Corky" Friery to the post of member of the joint village-town recreation committee.

The board resolved to support the establishment of Daytop Village in Dutchess County, in response to a suggestion by County Representative Madison Sipperley Jr. Simmons read a letter from the State Department of Transportation on the traffic situation at the east entrance to the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge. Residents of Forest Park had registered their disapproval of the setup, calling it hazardous.

The letter said that the situation on 9G-199 and Kalina Drive will be investigated, with the town to be advised of the findings. A letter and petition from the Red Hook Recreation Park, Inc. asking for lowering of the speed limit on Linden Avenue from the current 55 to 35 was duly noted. There were 75 signatures to the petition.

The board will send copies to the county representatives and county highway department. The town received only one fuel oil bid, from Effron of Poughkeepsie, for 17.4 cents per gallon. It was accepted.

And Judge Ellmore Fraleigh, returning after illness, said he would confine himself largely to dealing with the mail work. He asked that a new magistrate's chair be purchased for the Town Hall Office — the one currently in use is supported by a stack of books.

Swift Action by State On an Intersection

RED HOOK An action taken by the Red Hook Taxpayers' Association has brought swift action by the State Department of Transportation on a dangerous intersection.

The Association wrote to the Department Nov. 17, bringing to its attention the intersection of Spring Lake Road at Route 9.

M. H. Pier, assistant civil engineer of the Department of Transportation and G. W. Hart, assistant resident engineer, West Dutchess and West Putnam counties, conferred with the Association this week.

The engineers agreed that a dangerous condition exists with the remedy being to cut back the embankment sufficiently to improve visibility of northbound traffic.

They stated that they would initiate the proceedings to obtain the right of way necessary before any improvements can be made. And they pointed out that this is a lengthy procedure involving approvals from various offices, locally and in Albany.

The engineers have suggested to the County Transportation Office that road markings at the intersections be relocated, which would require motorists to approach Route 9 from the extreme right for more visibility. A stop sign should also be erected on the pavement, according to Thaddeus Peters, president of the Red Hook association.

Traffic Club To Install at Dinner Fete

POUGHKEEPSIE The Mid-Hudson Traffic Club will hold its installation and Christmas party at a dinner meeting tonight at Aloys Garden Restaurant, Garden Street. Social hour will be at 6:30 with dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Officers to be installed are Ralph Achilli of Hyde Park, president; Jack McFadden, Kingston, first vice president; Joseph Elton, Newburgh, second vice president and Robert Irving, Walden, treasurer.

New members of the board of governors are Robert McArdle of Newburgh, and Ronald Baker of Beacon, three year terms and Kenneth Heath of Claverack, one year term.

Christmas Phenomenon . . . It Affects Everyone

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON

Christmas. Hidden somewhere in the midst of unconvincing "Ho Ho Ho's," frumpy looking Santas, suspiciously well behaved boys and girls and those notorious office parties is the generosity, the sacrifice, the smiles for strangers and the inevitable good cheer that mark the beauty of Christmas.

Special

For several brief weeks before Santa plops dramatically down the chimney on Christmas Eve, people are different. No matter how sad, they're happy; the poor become just a little bit richer; the aging regain some of the vitality of their youth; those without hope are buoyed by a glimmer of light — from somewhere.

It's a phenomenon that occurs throughout the world and no matter what language, it translates into "magic" — there's no other way to explain it.

Like every other city on earth, Kingston succumbs to its spell. Hard-hearted merchants and shoppers alike join together and dispense good cheer like it was free. They form, in effect a three-week mutual admiration society and it's not formed solely on the "customer admires the products, merchant admires the money" principle. The people are genuinely happy loving those they used to hate.

Wall Street, these days, exemplifies the pervasive Christmas spirit that grabs and holds everyone in its clutches. This reporter was physically mauled by a deceptively kind looking elderly lady in a dead heat lunge for a free cashier. She looked down and said, sweetly, "I'm so sorry, young man." Christmas. It affects everyone.

The brightest glow at Christmas time is emitted from the wide-eyed children who gaze longingly at row upon row of cars and trucks, games, books and dolls. Christmas lists to Mom and Dad, Aunt Agnes and Uncle Harry and, of course, Santa Claus are prepared and mailed well ahead of time and, in the interim, the youngsters dream the impossible dream of getting everything they asked for, and more.

Kingston is a mecca for the toy-hungry tot and a headache for frantic parents. While most of the stores on Wall Street cater to the older set (teenagers and up) by offering, for the most part, clothes and jewelry and assorted gifts, the Kingston and Ulster Shopping Plazas offer a wide selection of toys for the youngsters.

One store, packed to the rafters with every conceivable item for the pre-teen set, and some items that are inconceivable, does a landslide business every holiday season, and this week was no exception.

On display are hundreds of different games, ranging from checkers to chess and everything in between. This section of the store wasn't too crowded, probably because losing six straight games of monopoly to a six-year-old upstart on Christmas Day doesn't set too well with Dad.

Of course, there are the usual balls that bounce, books that talk and dolls that do everything except pay the bill. To top it all off, there's a "creative" deck that doesn't do anything. That's creativity.

There's no lack of selection for gifts for the older set either. Kingston's finest jewelers offer a wide selection of traditional holiday gifts for the discriminating shopper and the clothiers in town can usually come up with whatever style, color or era turns you on.

Then there are the not-so-usual gifts. A Kingston woman purchased an exotic looking battery powered back scratcher—a "gag gift." An expensive joke for himself. A Stone Ridge man said he bought his wife a new car for because he didn't want to spoil the surprise) was in the process finding out. She later conceded it was just said he bought a car too, but of buying his wife a new set of living room furniture. His interviewed already had their One lady wasn't doing any a silver and green laden tam- ($9.95), tax and batteries not. A Kingston man (Mr. "r" only problem: How to sneak it gifts selected. A few were going shopping, but she experienced bourine, she said simply, 'the included) for her husband bought his wife a new car for because he didn't want to spoil the surprise) was in the process finding out. She later conceded it was just said he bought a car too, but of buying his wife a new set

Mohawk Airlines Mediation Board Talks Scheduled

UTICA, N.Y. (UPI)—Mohawk Airlines said Tuesday the National Mediation Board has set Dec. 14 for resumption of negotiations in the strike by Mohawk pilots.

A Mohawk spokesman said word of the renewed talks, which will be held in Washington, came in a telegram from Thomas Tracy, executive secretary of the NMB.

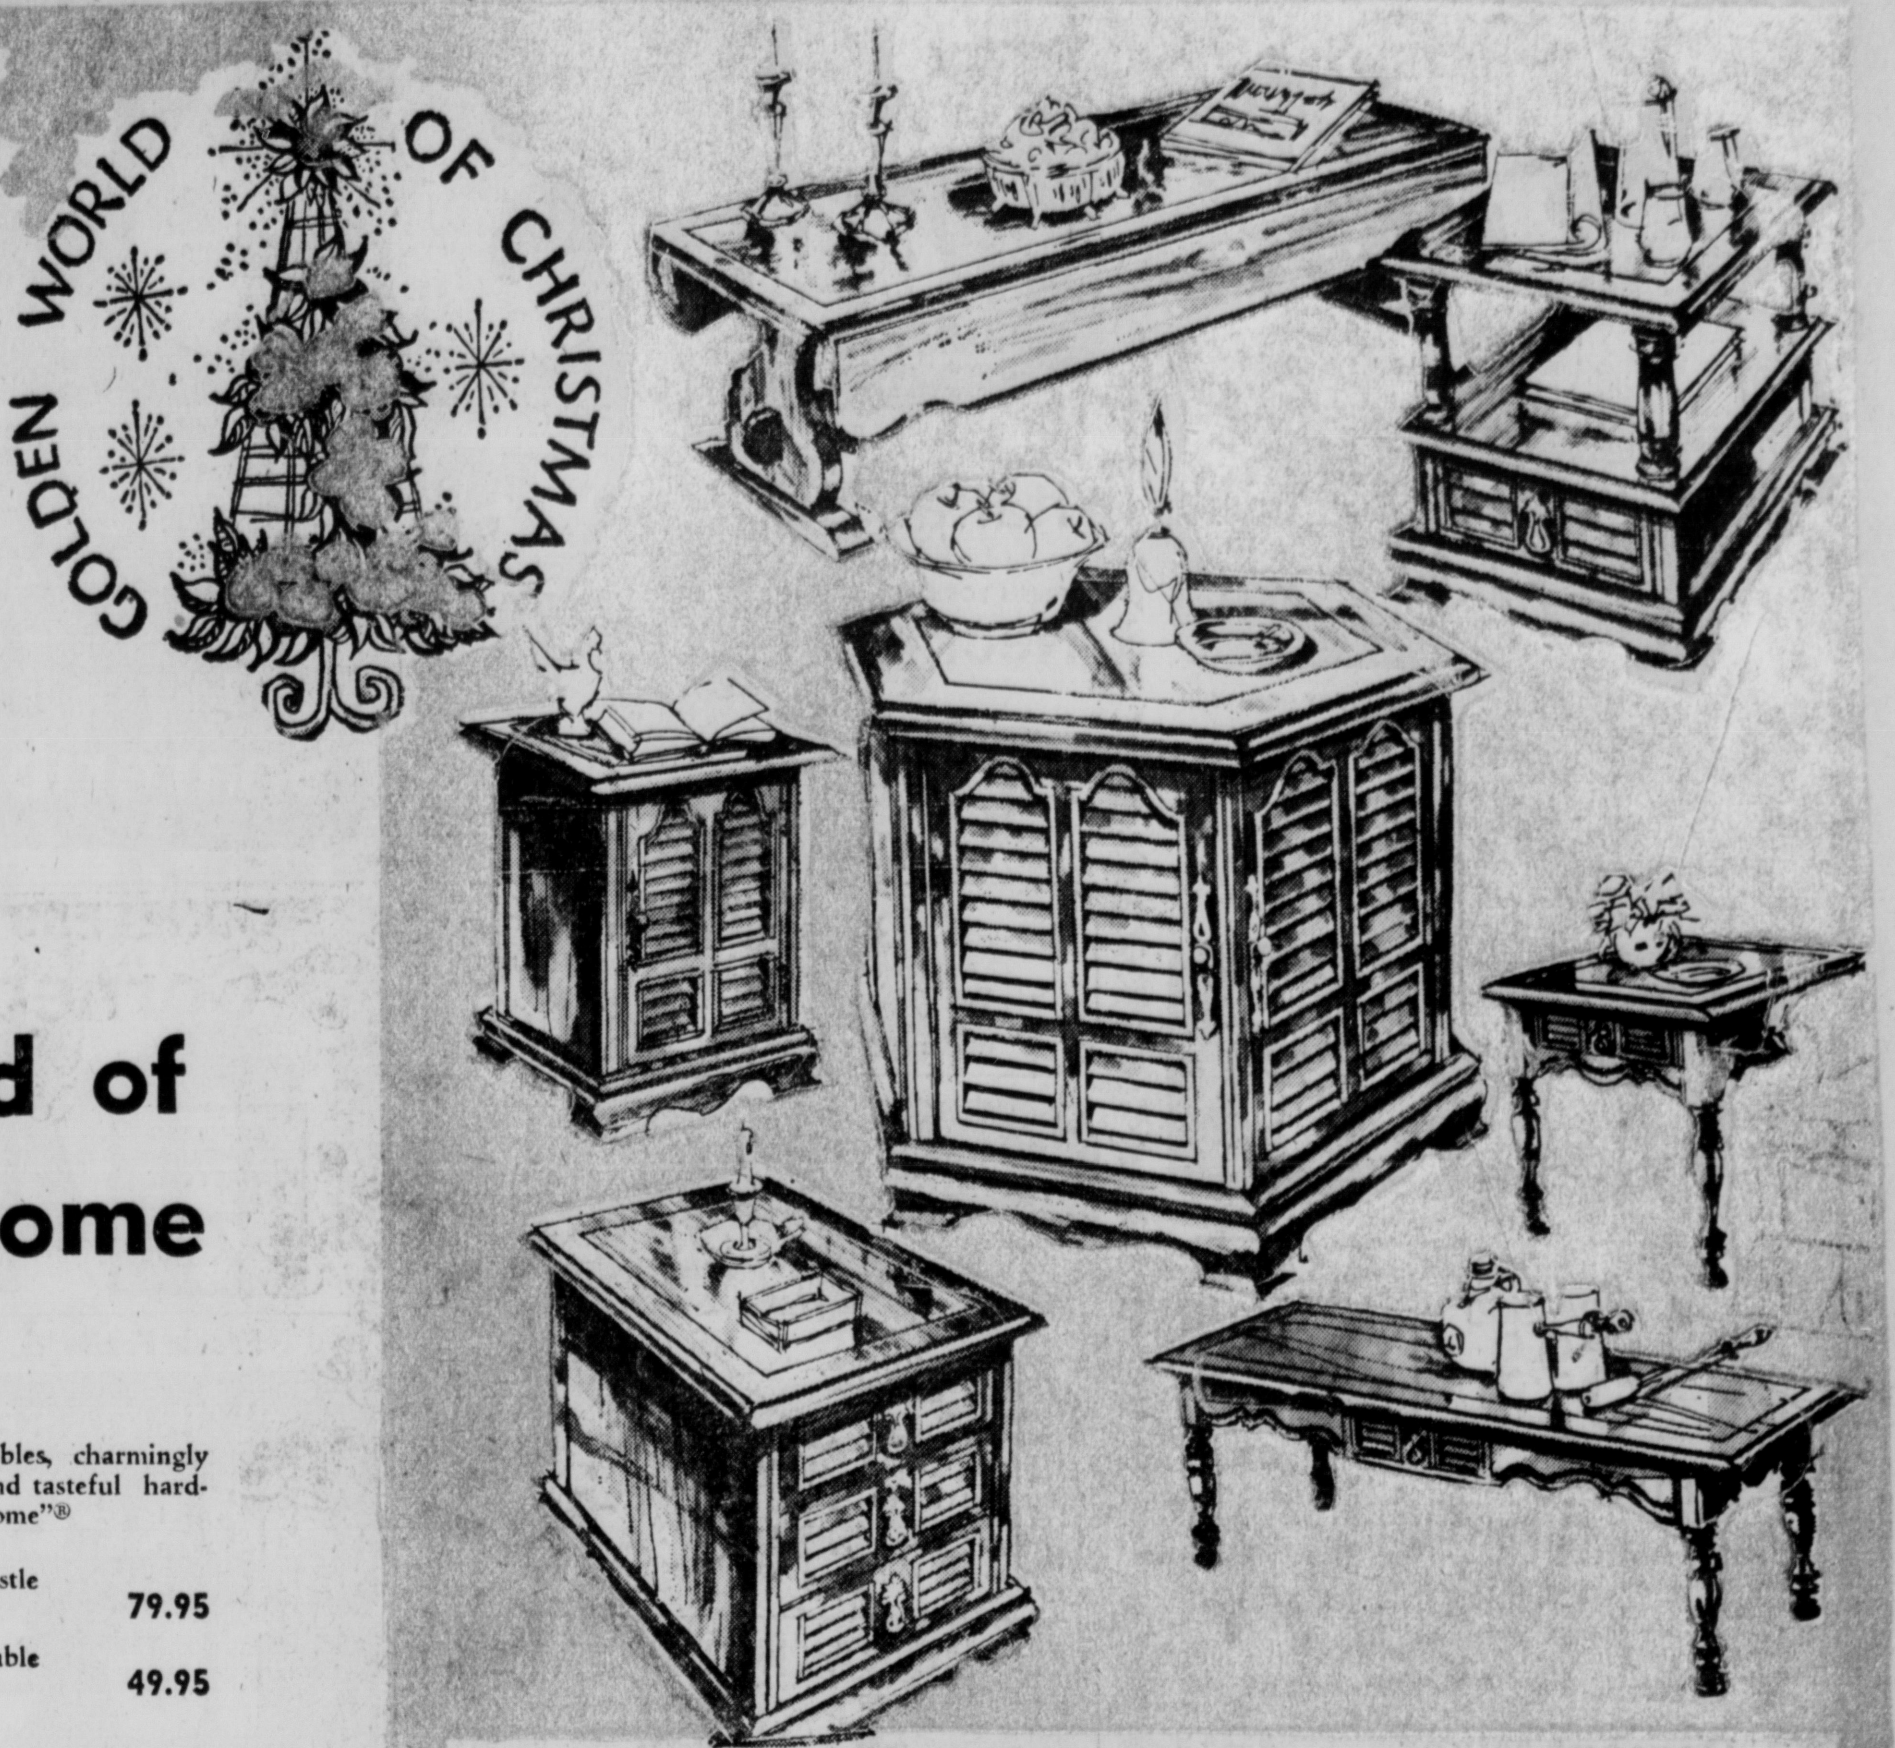

Mohawk's 396 pilots have been on strike since Nov. 12 in a contract dispute.

Talks between Mohawk and the Air Line Pilots Association were recessed Nov. 25.

When the strike began, Mohawk cancelled all flights for the duration and furloughed most of its 2,500 other employees.

Heart President Names Mrs. Brinnier Chairman of Public Relations Group

KINGSTON Ginouves, president of the Association, announced. Mrs. William D. Brinnier, a member of the Board of Directors of the Association, has been an active volunteer during the past year around basis. The objective of the committee are to publicize the programs of the Mid-Hudson Heart Association through the preparation of materials for newspapers, radio and television. The committee also will prepare materials for informal programs entailing the use of art, photos and other working assignments. This committee will be instrumental in publicizing the story of heart throughout Columbia, Greene and Ulster Counties, the area served by the Mid-Hudson Heart Association.

MRS. WILLIAM BRINNIER

Chapter 99's Will Meet at Hidden Valley

ROSENDALE Hidden Valley Lake, Route 32 Kingston will be the setting for the December meeting and Christmas party of the Hudson Valley Chapter 99's, chairman, Mrs. William Miller, Schenectady and Mrs. James Duncan, Hidden Valley Lake announced jointly today. The meeting is scheduled for noon Saturday, Dec. 12 and will feature a covered dish luncheon and a day of sports and "hangar flying."

The Hudson Valley Chapter 99's was formed two years ago by two area women: Mrs. Gale Brownlee, Woodstock, who was first chairman and Mrs. Irving Eyles, Kingston who served as chairman for the second year. Mrs. Brownlee is now fund-raising chairman for the Benedictine Hospital Heliport under construction on the hospital grounds.

The 99's are an International Organization of Licensed Women. Pilots formed 40 years ago by Amelia Earhart. The membership has grown from the original 99 women to over 4,000 with chapters all over the United States and other portions of the free world.

The 99's meeting is opened to all licensed or women student pilots.

Another Mini - Session Of the Assembly Set

ALBANY The New York State Assembly will go into another Albany mini-session on Monday and Tuesday, December 14 and 15.

Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock) a member of the Assembly Standing Committee on the Judiciary and Governmental Employees will have two full days of committee meetings and hearings.

The Assembly Governmental Employees Committee will be giving careful consideration to possible changes in the State's Taylor Law which prohibits strikes by public employees. Recently teachers at the Ulster County Community College, in Assemblyman Bell's district, went on strike and closed the college after impasse was reached. Assemblyman Bell believes the law must be changed in some manner to guarantee a continuous learning process for the benefit of the students and the community, and also to guarantee teachers their right to genuine collective bargaining. The Assembly Judiciary Committee will be reviewing court reform measures and possibly proposals to curtail campaign spending.

Assemblyman Bell, a member of the powerful Joint Legislative Committee on Reapportionment, also will be reviewing the new official United States Census figures. The Reapportionment Committee must draw new Assembly district, Senatorial, and Congressional district lines to comply with the one man, one vote doctrine of the United States Supreme Court, in time for the 1972 general election.

HVP Orchestra Tops; Milstein Gets Ovation

The Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra received the rapt and enthusiastic attention of a near capacity house for Monday night's concert in the Community Theatre, Kingston. It was the orchestra's second concert of the current season and featured the talented and world renowned violin virtuoso Nathan Milstein.

Leonard Stine, well known local musician and former director of music in the Kingston City Schools, reviewed the concert for The Daily Freeman and had this to say:

"In the Concerto for Violin and Orchestra, by Glazounov, Milstein demonstrated his stature as one of the world's leading violinists with the playing of this difficult work. His performance was flawless and he evidenced a very strong style of playing in which he appeared to dominate the entire orchestra."

"It is alleged that Milstein played this Concerto at the age of 10 years at which time the orchestra was conducted by the composer."

"After repeated ovations, Milstein played an encore, a Paganini Etude. Played without accompaniment, the artist demonstrated his incredible technique."

"As for the orchestra, they did a very fine job on the Beethoven Symphony No. 8 in F major and various sections of the orchestra displayed unity and precision. The orchestra, as a whole, appears to be rapidly taking its place among the leading orchestras and has grown a great deal under the direction of Claude Monteux."

Mr. Stine also told the Freeman that Monday's concert was one of the finest ever scheduled by the Philharmonic. There was one substitution. The Williams Partita for Double String Orchestra was dropped from the program and substituted with the Brahms Variations on a Theme by Haydn.

Kingston music lovers saw not only a great musician Monday night, but had they been given the opportunity, they would have discovered Milstein to be a person of great personal charm as well. He is known to his many friends on three continents for his wit, interest in philosophy, painting, politics, literature and languages. This was his third appearance with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic, a great treat for the Kingston area.

In other Philharmonic news, the Monteux Chamber Players will give a series of concerts at the Holy Cross Church on

BACKSTAGE with violin virtuoso and guest artist Nathan Milstein, center, are Philharmonic board members, (l-r) Richard North, treasurer, and Roy Ickes, vice president. Milstein received a tremendous ovation from the audience and acknowledged it with an encore. He played the Brahms Variations on a Theme by Haydn. (Freeman photo by Haines)

CLAUDE MONTEUX chats with Eva Arza of Paraguay, South America, prior to concert-time Monday night at the Community Theatre. Miss Arza, an exchange student studying at Ontario Central High School in Boiceville, received a season's ticket to the Philharmonic concerts as a gift. She will be at OCS through June, 1971. ## Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Ever since detergents came on the market my fingernails have had no strength, and, if they attained any length, the least bump would snap them off.

Somewhere I acquired an old nail buffer. I keep it by my TV chair, and buff my nails 'til they "burn" at least once a day.

This works wonders. Now, I have long, strong nails.

tablecloths. They can be cut up into decorative and generous-sized baby or toddler bibs.

Long strips of plastic can be cut for ties, and stapled at the neck.

They wipe clean easily and nothing is lost when the bibs are damaged.

Mrs. D. E. Lanspa

Dear Heloise:

Here is a handy, inexpensive way to keep the lid on your trash can. It prevents the wind from blowing it off and also prevents animals from taking off the lid.

Just buy a dog leash with the snap fastener for about 39 cents. Fasten the snap on one side handle, pull the leash through the lid handle and tie to the handle on the other side. Cut off the excess. The snap catch on one side makes it easy for you to open the lid when necessary.

Newspaper Guild Dinner Honors For Five Residents: Saturday

The Kingston Unit of the American Newspaper Guild, Local 215, will honor five area residents at its annual dinner Saturday night in Deane's Restaurant in Woodstock.

In keeping with past practice, the Kingston Newspaper Guild has selected five people to receive Page One Awards in the fields of Labor, Journalism, Sports, Music and Community Service.

Guild President Charles J. Tiano has announced the sports winner to be Michael Ferraro, International All-Star third baseman with Rochester. Receiving the Journalism award will be Heywood Brown, CBS sports essayist.

The Page One Award Committee, consisting of Mr. Tiano, Dorothy A. Narel, Edward Palladino, Henry Eighmey, Robert Bain and Tobie Geertsema, have announced that Melinda Davis will receive the Page One Award for Community Service; Percy Gazlay, Page One Award in Music; and Robert C. Smith, Page One Award in Labor.

Relatives and friends of the Page One Award winners are invited to attend the dinner Saturday night at 7 o'clock in order to pay tribute to these outstanding citizens.

Ardent Worker

Melinda Davis lives her life on the far frontiers of urban renewal as a dedicated and active promoter of civil and human rights.

In the once burgeoning, now stilled by demolition Roundout section of Kingston, she has worked to fill a need that has existed for many years; will continue to exist until a rebuilding process has been accomplished.

As Roundout Community organizer, she has been instrumental in bringing badly needed services to Kingston's black community; has succeeded in fulfilling a dream of accomplishing changes in downtown Kingston's way of life.

With a remarkable flair for organizing, she has a long record of achievements in varied fields. In her position as community organizer from the Office of Economic Opportunity-funded Roundout Community Action Committee, she has been a dominant force in the lives of many local residents.

Giving her full-time efforts to her job, she counsels people in her area on employment schooling and family matter. She was responsible for organizing the highly successful Roundout Baby Sitting Service, which began on a small scale; grew to a full-fledged program.

At the other end of the spectrum, she lent her talents to the Roundout Senior Center in an effort to provide services for the area's elderly. And, among various other endeavors, she also serves on the Mayor's Advisory Board by appointment of Kingston's Mayor Francis R. Koenig.

Music Man

If Percy W. Gazlay II had his way, everyone would be singing. Mr. Gazlay, who has concertized in Ulster County for more than 15 years, has been instrumental in introducing hundreds to the joys and satisfaction of singing. An accomplished pianist and organist, he studied with noted organist-composer Carl Mueller, as well as with organist Arthur Poister, conductor Maurice Kessler and at Oberlin Conservatory. As a leading choral director locally, he has revived many of the great choral works and oratorio music and, on the lighter side, he concentrates on varied musical programs for the Ontario Chorus presentations. Gazlay is Minister of Music at Kingston's Fair Street Reformed Church; is also a member of the board of directors for Kingston's Community Concert Association.

Labor Award

Richard C. Smith, president of the Faculty Association at Ulster County Community College, will be cited by the Guild for his outstanding performance as chairman of the Association's negotiating committee during the current collective bargaining sessions. Smith will receive the Page One Award in Labor.

A native of Augusta, Maine, Smith joined the UCCC faculty six years ago. He spent 13 years teaching in the Maine public schools. An alumnus of Gorham State College, Gorham, Maine, he earned his masters from the University of Colorado and has done graduate work at Cornell University, Colgate and Colby.

Smith, an associate professor of Physical Science at UCCC, is a member of the National Faculty Association of the National Education Association and a life member of the NEA. He serves on the committee to formulate course on the Hudson River as an estuary for the Associated Colleges of the Mid-Hudson Region; is a member of the executive committee of the Mid-Hudson Physics Teachers' Association and has held numerous committee posts at UCCC.

Past Awards

The Kingston Newspaper Guild has honored many during the past years. In Journalism, such names as Ira V. D. Warren, Nate Markson, Harry M. Thayer, Ira Wallert, Pauline Homell and William J. Woestendiek have been engraved on the Journalism plaque.

In Literature and Art, the Guild has honored Henry M. Robinson, Henry Mattson, John Pike, Doris Lee, Harry Hohnhorst and Earl B. Winslow. Recipients of the Labor Award have been M. Michael Potoker, Sam Doyle, George E. Yerry Jr., Arthur Rosenstock, John A. Cole, Stephen Ripley, Eleanor Coit and Michael Marchuk.

In 1956, Joseph F. Sullivan received a Page One Award for his work in the typographical field and in 1960, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was honored for her humanitarian service.

Civic and county awards were given to Agnes Scott Smith, Harry Edson, Harry Resnick, Addison Jones, Peter Keresman and Macdonald DeWitt. Katherine M. Murphy and Charlotte A. Peck were cited as Women of the Year while the Music Award was copied by Robert L. Craft, Leonard Stine, Marlin E. Morrette, Claude Monteux and Harry Simon.

STORY OF HANUKKAH—Rabbi Harry Z. Scheetman reads the story of Hanukkah to (l-r) Barbara Salomon, Eric Werbalowsky, and Ellen Weinstein, students in the Talmud Torah of Ahavath Israel. On Hanukkah, the Festival of Lights, the story is told of Judah Maccabeus who led a small, but courageous band of followers to recapture Jerusalem from the tyrant Antiochus in 164 B.C.E. The Maccabees cleansed the holy Temple but when they came to rededicate it they found sufficient oil for only one day. However, the oil miraculously lasted for eight days. The Jewish people celebrate Hanukkah for eight days, therefore, as a time for rededication to the religious and moral principles of Judaism. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Speaker Named for Open Forum

Mrs. Frieda Dingee of Multi Media Center will be speaker Thursday evening at YWCA's recently formed "Open Forum." Scheduled for 8 p.m. at YWCA, 209 Clinton Avenue, Kingston, Mrs. Dingee's subject for discussion will be "the Optimum Involvement Conditions for Learning at Home and at School."

A lively discussion took place Thursday, Nov. 12 after Lawrence Siewers talk, "Raising Children in 1970" which was the first Open Forum meeting of the group. The Forum is open to all interested persons.

At the January Open Forum, Jay Wenk, psychotherapist, who is trying to establish a drug institute in this area, will draw from his past experience with drug addicts in Harlem to provide information and answer any questions the public may have concerning the drug problem.

Cosmetic Confusion Is Over

Beautiful women once had to spend countless hours before their cluttered vanities fussing over skin problems, experimenting with hard to apply make-ups, trying the latest cleansing creams. Now, a new computer in New York City, programmed by young experts, can solve your personal beauty problems rapidly by analyzing your specific beauty data.

The company, Compute-Her-Look, works on the premise that many women spend hundreds of dollars a year on cosmetics which may not be right for them. Its first aim is to help these women choose the cosmetics that are right for them and eliminate unnecessary cosmetic waste.

The group is also aware that today's woman is more involved in every facet of life than ever before. She doesn't have the time or the inclination to dawdle for hours in front of a mirror. Yet she cares about beauty... natural beauty. The company's second aim is to release her from the tedium of applying make-up that looks false, using shampoos that dull her hair, slaving over a cleansing program that leaves behind the same old blemishes.

The Compute-Her-Look invention is as up to date as you'd like to be. The caked complexion is out, as are thick eyeliners, teased hair, ruby red lips. The softer glow is in, with translucent powders, glossy lipsticks, and smooth, silky hair. The computer is programmed to the look today's woman wants, along with all the information on cosmetic and grooming products according to ingredients, not brand names. Its plan can help you achieve the naturally beautiful look easily and confidently.

Here's how it works:
You fill out a multiple-choice questionnaire giving the particulars of your hair, skin, eyes and facial features. At the end of the form, add your age, height and weight. It's imperative to be as accurate and truthful as possible... the computer will never tell. Then mail the completed form to Compute-Her-Look.

The data on you is run through the computer. Your beauty characteristics are quickly analyzed and the types of cosmetics and grooming habits correct for you are tabulated in an 8,000 to 10,000 word beauty report. The entire analysis is sent to you. It includes clues to your cosmetic success, such as types of potions you should avoid, and the facial assets you should enhance. Did you know, for instance, that bleached or dry hair should only be washed in warm water... never hot?

The report also tells you how to style your hair, how to apply powders and eyeliners, and surprising tricks with the new paste eyeshadows all geared to your facial shapes, tones and needs.

A group of young men who felt the need for women to know more about the make-up they use, have done something about it. How about you? ... Have you taken stock of your appearance lately?

Write today for your confidential questionnaire to Compute-Her-Look, 516 Fifth Avenue, Suite 507, New York, New York, 10036.

Poughkeepsie Hands Kingston First Defeat

By MORT LAFFIN

KINGSTON

The Pioneers of Poughkeepsie High made good use of a zone defense and took advantage of Kingston's inability to hit from the foul line as they squeezed past the Fighting Maroons, 51-50, in a non-league basketball contest Tuesday night at the Kate Walton Field House.

Kingston, coming into the game with a 2-0 record, appeared tight and threw away numerous chances to score via the turnover route. The locals also had a very poor night from the charity stripe, making just one point in four one-and-one penalty situations over the final two and one-half minutes of play.

The Maroons trailed by two markers, 39-37 going into the final period of play. Chuck Jackson hit a jumper from the corner to even the score. Poughkeepsie came back down the floor and missed the shot. Kingston came up but lost it on a turnover.

The Pioneers grabbed the ball and moved down court with Steve Harr taking a lead pass from Charley Smith. Harr went in for the deuce and Poughkeepsie had the lead back, 41-39.

Kingston had trouble penetrating the zone and again lost the ball. This time Harr took the outlet pass from Kurt Dossin and went all the way for the bucket.

Herman Simon, who had 24 points for the Maroons, drove through the middle and fired in a jump shot over Tony Johnson. Simon was fouled and hit the three-point play as Kingston came within one, 43-42.

With less than four minutes to convert the free throws. After Kingston's Tony Adams and Poughkeepsie's Charley Smith traded baskets, Smith fouled out at 2:18. And, again the Maroons were unable to take advantage.

Vino Platts hit a jumper with 1:14 remaining to bring the locals within five, 51-46. Al Quigley committed his fifth foul for the Pioneers. But, the lid stayed on the basket as Adams missed the first shot of the one-and-one.

Platts and Simon then hit for two buckets to make the score 51-50 in favor of Poughkeepsie.

During the last exchange, Tony Johnson became the fourth Pioneer starter to go to the bench with five personal fouls. And, as if it were part of some great master plan, Kingston was unable to hit the one-and-one.

SIDE BARS: Kingston's problem appeared to be involved more with moving the ball offensively than anything else. Simon would come down and look for his team to set up. However, the locals didn't move as well as they did in the John Jay encounter. This forced Simon to take some bad shots and was the major reason for the vast amount of turnovers.

For Poughkeepsie, Tony Johnson moved inside the boards on Adams, using his great size to keep the young Maroon hoopster away from the basket. The visitors also made use of the fast break. Every time Kingston penetrated the zone, there would be no one back to stop the fast break and Harr and Dossin scored unmolested.

Simon has some very fine moves. He can jump and hang there for a good length of time. His variety of layup and jump shots had the fans cheering. And his shooting from the foul line was near perfect as he was 12 of 16.

The offense, however, must learn to move without the ball and not stand and wait for Simon or one of the other guards to do something. Once the KHS hoopsters learn to move as a team... well, only time will tell.

Ali Ready in Six—Weeks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cassius Clay, or Muhammad Ali, man I ever fought. Second, I'm taking more punches in one punch by stopping a man, satisfied because I proved to fight than I have in all my putting him down, who had everyone I can take a punch by others. Third, I proved I could never been stopped before."

Clay, his previously unmarked face still showing signs of his 15-round technical knockout over Oscar Bonavena, says he will be ready for a title showdown with heavyweight champion Joe Frazier in six weeks.

"I could be ready for Frazier in six weeks," said the 28-year-old Clay, a bruise and a slight swelling showing by his right eye. "I don't care where or when the fight is after that."

A bidding war for the bout, the richest plum in sports history, has developed between New York's Madison Square Garden and Houston's Astrodome, but the most commonly discussed date is Feb. 17.

The fighters have already agreed to the terms of the bout, an even split of the $10-million receipts with 35 per cent going to each man. The Garden could be scaled for more than $1-million live gate with a top ticket price of $250.

At the present time, the Garden would seem to have the inside track in landing the bout since Clay does not have a license to fight in Texas and might have trouble getting one.

"The fight has not been signed with anyone or anywhere," said Frazier's manager, Yank Durham, "and anybody who says it has is lying. I can say it definitely will not go to Philadelphia, Boston or Chicago. I just want the best deal and so does Clay."

Frazier, who became champion after Clay was stripped of the title and banned from boxing in 1967 for refusing to go into the Army, has predicted a sixth-round knockout in the bout, but Clay says he is not making any prediction.

"I'm not going to make any prediction this time," explained Clay. "It's too dangerous."

Dolphin Gilmore Off and Winging

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer

The way Artis Gilmore of the Jacksonville Dolphins is going he could be the college basketball player of the year as well as the highest scorer.

The 7-foot-2 giant did it again Tuesday night. He scored 31 points and grabbed 26 rebounds in leading the Dolphins to a 114-108 victory over Florida State in the final of the Civitan Charity tournament.

He now has scored 139 points in the four games the nationally third-ranked Dolphins have won and was a unanimous choice as the outstanding player in the tourney.

The largest crowd ever to see a college basketball game in Florida, 10,112, watched the game at Jacksonville and cheered Gilmore as he dominated the boards against the Seminoles' 6-11 sophomore, Reggie Royals.

Leon Burns The New OJ?

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Leon Burns, a smashing power runner from Long Beach State—whom his coach says is better than O. J. Simpson and Mike Garrett—was named to the Small College All-America team for the second year in a row today by The Associated Press.

Joining the 228-pound senior in the offensive backfield are three record-breakers—quarterback Jim Lindsey of Abilene Christian and running backs Leon McQuay of Tampa and Joe Profit of Northeast Louisiana.

Two more record-setters are ends John Curtis of Springfield and Harold "Red" Roberts of Austin Peay.

Burns runs the 40 in 4.5 and is very strong. He's also 27 years old and that's the only reservation the pros have about him.

After gaining 1,659 yards in 1969, Burns got off to a slow start this season because of an ankle injury. But he wound up with 1,033 yards on 275 carries, caught five passes for 89 yards and scored 20 touchdowns.

In a two-year career he gained 2,692 yards and scored 47 times. Coach Jim Strangeland knows whereof he speaks when he compares Burns to Simpson and Garrett because he coached those two while an assistant at Southern Cal.

This season, Lindsey completed 198 of 369 passes for 2,707 yards—including 414 against top-rated Arkansas State—and 22 touchdowns.

McQuay, one of two juniors on the first team, set a Tampa ground-gaining record of 706 yards in 1968 and broke it last year with 971. This season, he carried 196 times for 1,362 yards—a 6.9 average, returned 14 kickoffs for 396 yards and scored 20 touchdowns.

Profit, a 206-pounder who has 9.5 speed over 100 yards, is the Gulf Coast Conference's all-time rushing champ and was named to the league's Team of the Decade for the 1960s.

Curtis set New England game (214) and season (1,000) records for reception yardage in 1969 and was accorded all sorts of special defenses this season.

Still, he grabbed 43 passes for 753 yards—a 17.5 average—and set a New England career record of 1,848 yards.

Roberts, the other end, played on mediocre Austin Peay teams and without an exceptional quarterback, but still became the sixth receiver in history to snag more than 200 passes.

Coach Jimmy Feix of Western Kentucky calls him "the best clutch receiver I've ever coached against."

Pretty smooth idea... for a gift or a guest.

Just a sip smoother than the rest. Gift wrapped at no extra cost.

Celtics Continue Pursuit of Knicks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Celtics are running faster than anyone thought they would, but they still can't catch the New York Knicks.

The Celtics, picked by many to finish out of the playoffs—behind the Knicks and Philadelphia in the National Basketball Association's Atlantic Division, have run themselves right into second place.

Using a lightning fast break led by perpetually moving John Havlicek, the Celtics have reeled off nine straight victories, the last a 122-102 sprint past Buffalo Tuesday night.

However, the surge still has left Boston three games behind New York, which moves along pretty quickly, too, swishing past running, gunning Portland 139-121.

In other games, Milwaukee pummeled the Atlanta Hawks 125-104. Seattle came back to beat Philadelphia 107-104, the Chicago Bulls held down San Francisco 98-87 and Los Angeles defeated Phoenix 121-112.

In the American Basketball Association, Virginia edged the New York Nets 120-116 and Utah hammered Memphis 125-106.

The Celtics, displaying the type of fast break that helped them to 11 NBA titles in 13 seasons before their decline, rushed to a 59-44 halftime lead, and when the Braves closed to within six in the final quarter, Havlicek turned on the steam again. He finished with 34 points.

Willis Reed did the damage for the Knicks, leading them on a 14-2 run at the end of the first quarter and then to 13 straight points at the end of the second for a 66-48 halftime lead that never was threatened. Reed finished with 37 points.

Jon McGlocklin scored 10 of his 17 points at the start of the third period, lifting Milwaukee from a 58-53 intermission lead to a 75-62 spread, and Atlanta never caught up. Lew Alcindor had 24 points for the Bucks, who won for the 21st time in 24 who played without Jeff Mullins. Lou Hudson had 30 and Pete Maravich 29 for the Hawks.

Seattle trailed 70-56 in the third quarter and by seven points entering the final session before Dick Snyder scored 11 of his 21 points, including a basket that put the SuperSonics ahead to stay 96-95.

Bob Love scored a point for each year and then some as he celebrated his 28th birthday by leading Chicago past the Warriors with 30 points. Ron Williams had 23 for the Warriors, baskets.

Rondout Grapplers Open With Kingston

STONE RIDGE Medals will be awarded to first and second place finishers in each weight class.

Rondout Valley Central High will build its 1970-71 wrestling hopes around nine returning veterans and five returnees with some squad experience.

Coach Larry Skalla's Ganders open their formal season against Kingston Friday at 7 p.m. Returning from last year's squad are Frank Kortright, Tom Coddington, Bill Murat, John Auchmoody, Ed Barry, Lee Johnson, Gene Terwilliger, Charles Burton and Rich Gilliland. Two members of last year's team, Peter Nekos, the Section 9 champion, and Alan Elston will compete this year for Ulster County Community College.

Wrestlers with previous experience include Henry Bruckner, Bob Thorpe, Tom Elston, Jim Meigeli and Dave DuBois. Dennis Baney, a member of last year's varsity will be unable to compete the first half of the season because of a foot injury. About 35 boys are now working out daily trying to pin down berths on the varsity squad.

Among the newcomers to high school wrestling are Joe LaVoie, John Kokas, Mark Sullivan, Joe Blum, Bill Sparling, Steve Strobe, Fred Lopiano, Dan Shaver, Louis Santiago, Mike Burlarby, Cary Putzer, Robert DePuy, Tony Pumlilia and Walt Leskov.

A novice tournament will be held Saturday at the Rondout school. Wrestling starts at 10 a.m. and continues to the finals, which start at 3 p.m. The tournament is open only to boys new to competitive wrestling.

Eight schools will send teams to the tournament—Kingston, Red Hook, Ellenville, Ontario, Pine Bush, Wallkill, New Paltz and Rondout. The weight classes to be contested are 98 pounds, 105, 112, 119, 126, 132, 138, 145, 155, 167, 177 and 215.

Meggysey Raps Syracuse For Exploiting Players

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UPI) — Former Syracuse University grid star Dave Meggysey returned to his alma mater Tuesday to accuse the school of making itself "a major university in the eyes of the nation literally at the expense of hundreds of football players."

Meggysey, who played for the Orange from 1959 to 1963 and later played seven seasons as a linebacker for the St. Louis Cardinals, said Syracuse had engaged in "a pure case of exploitation — one step above serfdom and slavery."

Speaking without university sanction at an unauthorized gathering of nearly 1,000 students in Hendricks Chapel on the campus, Meggysey said "education is not what the coaching staff and educators have in mind for football players. They are channelled into remedial programs designed only to maintain eligibility. Consequently, most ball players don't graduate."

He said the coaching staff had often treated players with contempt for their basic human rights and when eligibility ran out they were forgotten.

"Symbolically and metaphysically, big time football represents our violent culture and the mode of authoritarianism," he said. "It has as its keynote competition and militaristic, organized violence."

Meggysey said football had originated in the game of rugby by a game of "skill" and "finesse," but that it now had been reduced from a sport to the level of physical violence.

"Big time football players are gladiators — it is a modern day version of bread and circuses," he said. In short, a distillation of all those values in American that keep people alienated from each other," he said.

"When the revolution comes, big time football will be unnecessary," he said. Meggysey said the National Football League should be run dismantled. Team owners are obsolete.

"If we would return the game to the participants, we really would have a medium for both SU's athletic department and the NFL, and an ar-kind of changes I feel are necessary in Look magazine on 'The Football Racket.'"

Corbally Makes Move

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UPI) — Syracuse University Chancellor John Corbally was expected to act Thursday on the recommendations of a special committee investigating alleged discrimination on the Orange football team.

Campus officials refused to comment Tuesday on a student newspaper story that the committee found the suspension of eight black players from the squad "an act of institutional racism."

Although the 38-page report was not scheduled for release until late today, the text was printed in Dialog, a student owned paper whose publisher and editor, Alan Stamm, was one of the 12 members of the committee. The committee was formed in September and charged by Corbally to probe the situation.

A spokesman for the university said Corbally would hold a 2 p.m. news conference Thursday "to act immediately" on whatever the committee recommended.

Head football coach Floyd "Ben" Schwartzwalder said "I just hope somehow this thing can run its course, but obviously it doesn't seem to be that easy."

"The less I say the better," Schwartzwalder said. "This thing will go on as long as you folks, the news media, keep hanging in there with it."

The report was quoted as saying: "The university should have acted favorably upon the request for the hiring of a black coach earlier and without being prompted."

The eight black athletes were suspended from the football squad in August for boycotting spring practice. The Syracuse-Onondaga County Human Rights Commission tried unsuccessfully to settle the dispute before Corbally finally named the committee to investigate.

Barbara Wagner Registers 621—3rd Highest Series

KINGSTON Barbara Wagner has moved into the No. 3 spot in the women's Top Ten scoring parade for the 1970-71 season. Barbara put together games of 236, 211 and 174 for 621 to take over third place by one pin from Anneliese Kime, who had 620.

Current leader is Barbara Finch with 633 and Dot Crantz second with 630.

Other 600 shooters, according to Freeman records this season, are: Lorraine Ferraro 617, Kathy Spadafora 616, Mary DuChaine, 615-602; Joan Jameson, Gilda Bach, 614; Kathy DeCicco 612, Colleen Stevens 603, Mary DuChaine 602, Gilda Bach 601 and Barbara Finch and Joan Huber, 600 each. Gilda Bach's 258 is top solo of the season.

Schoenman Winner

SAUGERTIES Bob Schoneman defeated Al North, 205-200, to become the first winner in Bowlers Club Tournament of Champions sponsored by Musiker Toyota of Kingston.

Schoneman rolled games of 172, 226, 233, and 211 to advance to the finals against North. He took down first prize money of $110 and is now eligible for the $1,000 rolloff next April.

More than 100 entries participated in the first qualifying round. Nineteen additional qualifying rounds are scheduled in order to qualify 20 bowlers for the grand finals. The tournament is open to all area bowlers and nearly 50 per cent of the qualifiers finish in the money. Thirty-two bowlers are qualified for the weekly finals.

Dear Abby

Unwanted Guests

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune, Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My brother got married a year ago, at which time he and his wife moved in with our widowed mother. It looked like a good deal for everyone because Mama owns a big house and was living all alone in it. Well, the three of them lived together for one year, and it didn't work out, so Mama asked them to move.

Now for the problem: My brother and his wife refused to leave. Last week Mama invited the family over for supper and my brother wouldn't let them in the house. He bolted the door, with my mother on the outside, too.

We went to our lawyer and he says it is a family affair and he can't do much. Right now Mama is staying with one of my sisters and the whole family is very upset about it. How can we get my brother and his wife out of Mama's house? My brother refuses to talk to any of us, and says he doesn't have a family anymore. I promised my mother I would write to Dear Abby for some advice. Maybe you or one of your readers can help us.

LOCKED OUT

DEAR LOCKED: You say your mother has been locked out of her own home, and your lawyer says he can't "do much"? You need another lawyer. He can do plenty!

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing to you, but here goes. Being a guy over 21 myself, I know pretty much how guys operate, and my concern at present is my 18-year-old sister who I am sure is being taken for a ride. She fell in love with this guy who in his quiet, well-mannered way (along with his good looks) made a big hit with all the family. He's constantly unemployed, shifting from one job to another, therefore my sister stakes him to meals, shows gasoline for his car and probably other expenses that we don't know about. This guy is smart and could get a decent job if he really wanted to.

The problem: Everybody is on to this bum but my sister. She can't figure it out because she is no dummy. Please give me some advice on how to wake her up!

"BRUZZ"

DEAR BRUZZ: If your sister is "emotional" about the bum, she isn't thinking—she's only feeling. ("Love" is a mental disease.) Any attempts to "wake her up" would only cause her to spring to his defense. Let her continue to shell out until she herself realizes that she's being taken. If she's no dummy, she'll wake up herself.

DEAR ABBY: This is a first for me, since I never before have written to a newspaper column. It is with regard to the reason some women continue to work the pregnant.

When I became pregnant with my first child, I had been the private secretary to a very prominent attorney. I wanted to quit earlier, but he just wouldn't let me go. At about 7½ months, I left the office, but my boss sent a typewriter to my home, and his chauffeur came daily to take me to his home where he dictated letters. Afterwards the chauffeur drove me home. I typed the letter, and the chauffeur delivered them to my boss. This went on until the day before my baby was born. I told my boss I wanted to stay home and be a full time mother, but he kept urging me to re-write (along with his good looks) hold my job open "indefinitely."

and he wouldn't take no for an answer. I never did go back to him.

That was 40 years ago. I am now 74, and a widow. My children are raised and have families of their own. Can you guess what I am doing? I am a secretary again!

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Get into the practical phases of your existence now and make those changes that can bring you considerable more security as well as better operative skill in attending to your obligations, collections. Influential men can be wrapped up in their own problems, so do not worry them about your concerns now.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Business situations may take awhile in jelling today, but if you show patience and keep busy at whatever you do best, all is fine. Find some sure-fire way to increase income. Avoid extravagances.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Taking health and beauty treatments first will make whatever you have to do later more productive. Cooperate with some good associate who has your interests at heart. Think logically, constructively.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Try not to worry others about your own problems but handle them wisely yourself by being objective, doing necessary work connected with them. Add something new to present wardrobe. Brighten it up.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Pals seem to be holding up the works today. You find you need extra diversion by evening. Show devotion to mate in some concrete way. Stop taking that person so much for granted.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Try not to do anything that will irritate kin or higher-ups in any way. Some problem you have can only be handled properly by you. Don't try to palm the work off on somebody else that is connected with it.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have some excellent ideas but they need further study before putting them in operation. Use that new plan you have to make routines more efficient. Much study in P.M. could be profitable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you listen to what financial experts have to suggest you can improve your own position greatly. Don't try to impose your own will on mate, but use tact. Think in terms of more harmony at home.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Although a partner is rather slow in carrying through with some agreement made with you, do not fret, since this is due to caution. Get those angles worked out better. Don't be demanding with others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get busy at the work ahead of you and stop thinking you are not so lucky as others which is not true. Take things in your stride. Use that good humor you have to lighten your load.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) During spare time be sure to contact good friends for the recreation that you want. Show close ties your devotion and interest in their welfare. Think out how to better your lot in life. Stand up for what you believe in.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Analyzing what your true position is with those whom mean much to you shows how to make the future brighter. Improving conditions is just a matter of using good judgment. Don't permit others to lead you by the proverbial nose.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Work more efficiently if you want the situation with allies to improve. Add more comforts as well as appliances so that you can progress. Try not to be late for any appointments you may have.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who wants to do everything the hard way early in life, but upon maturity such lessons learned make life easier. Teach not to be so concerned with money and property that all else is forgotten. Give the best spiritual and ethical training early and as much education as you can afford. Teach to work early also so that this desirable habit will be learned and stand in good stead for life. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

WHY WE SAY

STOOL PIGEON

A DECOY: A favorite way of catching wild pigeons used to be to take an already captured one and tie it to a stool so that other pigeons would stop and think it was safe because of the decoy. A net would then be used to capture the pigeons. In slang today a person who helps others to be captured by the law is called a "stool pigeon."

Quick Quiz

Q — Who holds the major league record for batting safely in the most consecutive games?
A — Joe DiMaggio of the American League, who hit safely in 56 straight games in 1941.

Q — How does a Canadian military salute differ from an American salute?
A — In the United States, servicemen salute with palms down; Canadian and British servicemen salute with their palms out, rather than down.

Q — How did God guard the gate of Eden?
A — According to the Book of Genesis, by cherubim and a flaming sword.

It Could Be a Long Winter

NEW YORK (AP) — Part of NBC's master plan for jazzing up the second half of its current season is showing only "world premiere" features instead of film reruns in its Monday night movie spot.

If all the upcoming made-for-TV efforts move at the pace of Tuesday night's "world premiere," it promises to be a long winter. The two-hour program was called "Breakout," and was one of those prison dramas built around one man determined to escape.

At the end of one hour and a half, nothing much had happened except to set the stage for the big wind up. The character, included Joe Baker, a bank robber with a heart of gold, played by James Drury; his prison pal, acted by Woody Strode; a comedy relief role, a prisoner called "Pipes," played by Red Buttons, using a squeaky voice, and an assortment of guards, accomplices and, of course the girl.

The program began in an unidentified state penitentiary, but was actually shot at Folsom Prison in California. The location of our hero's escape attempt was the high Sierras.

A two hour action show needs more than an authentic background and great scenery. By the time "Break Out" moved into the meat of the story, it was perfectly obvious what would happen.

The prisoners, a work gang logging on the mountain, were pressed into a hunt for a boy missing in a blizzard. Naturally, Joe found the boy while trying to escape—and naturally took the youngster back to his parents and himself, presumably, back to jail.

Meanwhile, Morley Safer was making his debut as co-host on CBS's "60 Minutes." He narrated and appeared in a segment describing the work and training of sky marshals now riding shotgun on the commercial airlines in efforts to foil skyjackers.

Safer's style is more flamboyant and aggressive than that of Harry Reasoner whose place he has taken on the show. Because Mike Wallace operates in much the same fashion, the program promises to become more hard-hitting and dynamic.

In the segment, viewers saw the interior of a trans-Atlantic plane and heard some anonymous sky marshals talk of their functions. There were shots of passengers willingly submitting to an electronic frisking as officials hunted for guns.

It has been several seasons since NBC presented the shocker, "Who Killed Lake Erie?" Now comes a poet: Rod McKuen, with an NBC special about animals on the verge of extinction from greed, carelessness, disease or over-crowding. It will be seen on Jan. 8.

When you use two-clubs as your only forcing opening, you release the other suit two-bids for other purposes. Expert practice is to use them to show a good suit and a hand just below an opening one-bid in high-card strength. In other words, the sort of hand that you would pass if not using weak two-bids.

There is danger in passing a hand such as South held today. You are likely to be doubled if and when you back in. If you open with two spades, you aren't likely to get into trouble, provided your partner understands your bid.

In JACOBY MODERN, the weak two-bid shows 7-10 high-card points and a six-card suit headed by at least two of the four top honors. It also shows fairly balanced distribution, so that South has a classic two-spade opening.

BARBS

By PHIL PASTORET

People who go south for the winter are foolish. There's a lot more of it to be had up north.

Girls just laugh at a wolf in sheep's clothing. They much prefer that he dress the one of the new synthetics.

Smuggest man in the neighborhood is the fellow who has his Christmas lights up — from last season, already.

Israeli Minister Washington-Bound

By United Press International
Israel sent Defense Minister Moshe Dayan to the United States today in an effort to clinch its bargain with Washington on conditions for a return to the Middle East peace talks.

Dayan left for the United States on a private visit to address a United Jewish Appeal (UJA) fund-raising banquet Dec. 12, but Prime Minister Golda Meir also gave him a free hand to bid for the highest possible political and military price the United States is willing to pay for the resumption of the indirect Israel-Arab dialogue, diplomatic sources in Tel Aviv said.

Dayan said before leaving he would meet with President Nixon, Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird. He added that "I will not raise any further Israeli demands or requests on security matters."

However, the diplomatic sources said in his talks with American officials Dayan will make several requests, including:

—Guarantee of U.S. arms supplies until at least 1972.
—Withdrawal of Roger's plan calling for Israel's pullback from occupied Arab territory.
—A U.S. commitment it will use its U.N. Security Council veto in the event an attempt is made to bring sanctions against Israel.
—A new cease-fire agreement with Egypt be reached through U.S. mediation and that it include mutual disengagement of troops from the Suez Canal.
—In Amman, Palestinian guerrillas and Jordanian officials were to draw up a new truce schedule in the wake of five days of fresh fighting. The latest incident came Tuesday when a government spokesman said an army patrol was ambushed at a crossroads near Jerash.

Viet City Under Mortar Fire

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—The Cambodian Command said today Viet Cong and North Vietnamese gunners bombarded Siem Reap near the ruins of Angkor Wat in a mortar attack that wounded two Cambodian soldiers.

The communists said 15 mortar rounds fell into Siem Reap, 160 miles northwest of Phnom Penh Tuesday night. The town remains in Cambodian hands although the 10th century ruins have been occupied by the Communists since last summer.

Cambodian spokesmen also said villagers in Takeo Province reported a clash between Rouge guerrillas and Viet Cong. "Several persons were killed and wounded," the command said of the fighting between the Cambodian Communists and the Viet Cong. The fighting, near the village of Trey Lovea, 40 miles south of Phnom Penh, was the second such incident reported by the Cambodian command in three weeks.

Khmer Rouge units have been reported fighting the Communists in several parts of the Cambodian front. The command issued a warning to motorists to exercise "extreme caution" on Highway 1 linking Phnom Penh and Saigon. The highway had been the only major artery in Cambodia considered safe for travelers but in the past week there have been reports of Viet Cong harassment and seizure of cars and taxis.

Military spokesmen said no progress had been reported in Cambodian operations designed to try to clear Communist troops from Highways 4, 6 and 7.

In Saigon, U.S. Command spokesmen reported an Army OH6 light observation helicopter was shot down Tuesday in Binh Thuan Province 96 miles east-northeast of Saigon. The crash killed one crewman and injured another.

Meanwhile, in Vietnam, all Americans from infantrymen to military police were ordered off the streets of this coastal city today in an effort to prevent further rioting by civilians protesting the death of a schoolboy shot by a U.S. soldier.

More than 2,000 civilians, mostly students, marched stoning Americans and overturning cars and trucks. Two Americans were hospitalized with minor injuries and one vehicle was burned, national police said.

The protests followed the shooting Monday of Nguyen Van Minh, 12, by a GI. Military sources said the soldier had fired a warning shot from his M16 rifle when a group of youngsters tried to steal supplies from a truck. The bullet went astray and struck the boy as he stood on a sidewalk in front of a school, the sources said.

Javits Wary of Power to Make War

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI) — Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said Tuesday the President's power to make war "has reached dangerous limits and could undermine" the system of checks and balances in our government.

Javits expressed alarm over the latest bombings of North Vietnam and the raid on a prisoner of war camp.

"The administration has accompanied its bombings and commando raids on North Vietnam with new assertions about the nature of the President's commander in chief powers," he said.

He spoke at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs.

He said implications raised by the President's foreign policy defenders in Congress "that the presidency is beyond the power of Congress to check in the exercise of war powers raises a constitutional danger."

A Javits proposal, which he said will be examined by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in the next session of Congress, would limit the President's military actions to four specific areas:

—To repulse a sudden attack against the United States, its territories and possessions;
—To protect the lives and property of U.S. citizens abroad;
—To repulse an attack against U.S. armed forces at sea or on foreign territory;
—And to comply with a national commitment by Congress and the president.

Javits said his proposal would require the president to report immediately to Congress on the military action undertaken. "His authority to sustain such military actions terminates within 30 days unless" approved by Congress, Javits explained.

Cooper-Church Bill Back Before Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opponents of expanded American involvement in Cambodia will ask the Senate to approve for a second time the Cooper-Church amendment severely limiting presidential use of American military force in the Southeast Asian nation.

Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., expect to reoffer their amendment—passed by the Senate last year but rejected by the House—when the Foreign Relations Committee considers President Nixon's request for more aid to Cambodia.

The Cooper-Church development came after the Senate gave overwhelming approval Tuesday to a ban on U.S. ground combat troops in Cambodia and as the Foreign Relations Committee prepared the release of a staff report on conditions in Cambodia.

In summarizing the report, Church said: "As of today, the Cambodian government in Phnom Penh is every bit as dependent on American aid as is the government in Saigon."

The aim of Cooper-Church supporters, in asking the Senate to approve the amendment a second time, is to emphasize Senate feeling against any U.S. military role in Cambodia, despite the aid program.

If accepted by the Senate, the amendment could delay until next year approval of Nixon's $255 million Cambodia aid program—$155 million in new economic and military assistance and $100 million to pay back funds already transferred to that country from other aid programs.

In passing 89 to nothing Tuesday a $66.4 billion defense money bill, the Senate approved the same bar on ground troops in Cambodia as was enacted a year ago for Laos and Thailand.
